TEAS.

We invite a careful examination of our large stock of Choice New Teas.

The utmost care exercised in selecting and advantages possessed by few in buying, have enabled us to build up a Tea trade far beyond anything we ever hoped for. The public is not slow to recognize true merit and excellence in any line of goods, and the party who buys a sample half pound of Tea in our store, learns at once that he receives from 25 to 50 per cent. better value than is usually obtainable in goods of this class.

We make it a study to place before our patrons the highest possible class of Teas that can be purchased, at prices far below what they have been selling for in this market for years past.

A PREACHER IN PRISON.

Wooster, Aug. 24.—Rev. D. G. Moore, of New Castle, Pa., who conducted a colored camp meeting here and left without making proper accounting of partnership money, was arrested and in default of $300 bail ordered committed to prison.

RUSSIAN RYE.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 24.—A ukase has been issued annulling the prohibition against the exportation from Russia of rye, rye meal and all kinds of bran.

As good as new—that's the condition of liver, stomach and bowels, when Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets have done their work. It's a work that isn't finished when you've stopped taking them, either. It's lasting. They cure, as well as relieve. And it's all done so mildly and gently! There's none of the violence that went with the old-time pill. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet's a gentle laxative—three to four act as a cathartic. Sick Headache, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks and derangements of the stomach and bowels, are prevented, relieved and cured. As a Liver Pill, they're unequaled. They're purely vegetable, perfectly harmless—the smallest, cheapest, and easiest to take.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy, because they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You only pay for the good you get. Can you ask more?

That's the peculiar plan all Dr. Pierce's medicines are sold on.

ARBITRATION.

The State Board Holding a Session.

Interest Centers in the Result of Its Labors.

Rochester Switchmen Go Out and Come Back.

One of the State Militia Taken to His Home a Raving Maniac, Caused by the Excitement and Privation.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The chief item of interest in connection with the strike to-day will be the board of arbitration this morning and the conference of the executives of the switchmen, firemen and conductors' and trainmen's organizations this evening.

Messrs. Clark and Wilkinson arrived here this morning. It is more than ever the general opinion that the conference will advise declaring the strike off. It is also stated that a renewal of the federation agreement between the four organizations which was disrupted last June as the result of internal strife will be effected and their lines strengthened for next year.

Whether Mr. Sweeney will accept the advice of the conference, if given, and give up the present struggle without first exhausting all the resources of his command is problematical. The news from Rochester this morning would seem to indicate that he will not, but intends, as was indicated in these dispatches on Saturday, to nag the roads by strike after strike along the systems and to endeavor to harass them into agreeing to some sort of compromise.

The strikers and their sympathizers continue their night attacks upon the troops and non-union men.

The Buffalo & Southwestern division of the Erie tried to send out an unguarded freight train on its road last night. There were three non-union men on top of the cars. As the train slacked up near Seneca street a lot of strikers boarded it and threw the three non-union switchmen off the cars and assaulted them with coupling pins.

Charles B. Henstenz was severely cut and was taken into the Erie roundhouse, where a surgeon dressed his wounds. Allen Richardson, who hails from Boston, was so badly injured that he was taken to the hospital.

Henstenz said that his assailant tried to throw one of the men under the train. After the assault the men fled before an alarm could be given and escaped.

There was the usual annoyance to the troops last night and early this morning but beyond the affair at Tifft farm, nothing of a serious nature is reported.

Another attempt was made to wreck a freight train in the yards at Suspension Bridge at 10:30 last night. An eastbound New York Central freight was making up and getting ready to leave. While backing in on a spur at the eastern end near the Lockport road, a switch was turned between the trucks of a car and the result was that a car in the middle of the train was derailed and thrown on its side. The train was stopped and the derailed car cut out. The switch house where the switch tender stood with his lantern was only four rods distant, but the marauder made good his escape.

AT ROCHESTER.

The Switchmen in the Central Hudson Yards Go Out.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 24.—It was reported early this morning that 75 switchmen on the Central at East Rochester had struck.

Inquiry later showed that there are but 75 or 100 switchmen along all the Central tracks in the city and that only 22 are employed in the East Rochester yards, ten night and twelve day switchmen. These 22 struck this morning at 4 o'clock but the trouble was of short duration. The men do not belong to the union and the strike was not so much sympathy with the Buffalo men as it was because the men here had a slight grievance in that they did not get extra pay for Sunday work as was the custom in Buffalo.

Assistant Superintendent Gould went to the yards and talked with the men, adjusting the grievance. The men went home to change their clothes and soon afterward they returned to work. A detail of eight policemen and a lieutenant was dispatched to the yards at once but no disturbance took place.

The strike of the switchmen at East Rochester did not occasion the least excitement at the other points along the line where switchmen were employed. The men at the Platt street freight house did not go out nor was any trouble noticed at the Central station.

His Mind Gave Out.

Newburg, N. Y., Aug. 24.—George Halfner, a sergeant in the Fifth separate company, is at his home in this city, having been brought here yesterday by Corporal Whitteman. Halfner's mind gave way under the hardships and privations experienced at Buffalo during the first few days. His breakdown occurred on Monday.

FIRST SESSION.

Arbitration Board Examining Witnesses.

Buffalo, Aug. 24.—The state board of arbitration met at 10:30 this morning for the purpose of making an investigation of the causes leading to the switchmen's strike, and which will be embodied in their annual report. There were present Messrs. Purcell, Donovan and Robertson. The following railroad officials received notices to be present: Division Superintendent Burrows, of the Central; General Superintendent Bradley, of the West Shore; Division Superintendent Dabney, of the Western New York & Pennsylvania; Superintendent Johnson, of the Nickel Plate; General Manager Kaibloe, of the Buffalo Creek; Division Superintendent Charles A. Brunn, of the Erie, and Division Superintendent Fennell, of the Lehigh Valley.

Frank Sweeney, grand master of the switchmen's union, was also notified to be present. Attorney John Hines will act as attorney for the switchmen. No subpoenaes will b essued until it is found which ones notified fail to appear. The switchmen were represented by a committee of three from each road. Chairman Purcell opened the investigation by reading the law which empowers the board to make investigations in cases of strike. He said the men who had gone out on a strike wiuld be heard first.

Attorney Hines then offered the recent 10-hour law in evidence.

John McMahon was the first witness for the strikers.

CATHOLIC AFFAIRS.

Election of Oficers at the Tiffin Convent.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 24.—The community in this city known as the Convent of the Ursuline Sisters held its triennial election yesterday. Mother Ignatius, who held the office of Mother Superior 21 years by appointment, and two terms of three years each by election, was succeeded by Mother Ligouri, who for a number of years has been her assistant, and who is a daughter of the late Judge Johnson, of this city.

For first assistant mother superior, Mother De Sales was chosen; for second assistant, Mother M. Pius was chosen; for repository, the choice fell upon Mother St. Angela. The latter Mother Superior will remain as the financial head of the institution.

Mgr. Boff, of Cleveland, the vicar-general, presided at the election and installed the new officers.

GERMAN VETERANS.

The Interesting Meeting in Kansas City Has Closed.

Kansas, City, Mo., Aug. 24.—The German Veteran assocation finished its business yesterday and nearly all the members went home on the early morning trains.

Those who remained have been treated this morning to a carriage ride over the city and will depart this evening.

The meeting has been a most successful one in the matter of business transacted but the number present fell below the anticipations of the officers.

The awarding of prizes took place at the ball last night and were for marksmanship and different feats of athletics. The prizes consisted of medals, there being no money consideration.

OHIO DEMOCRATS.

They Are Preparing for the Campaign.

W. A. Taylor Will Wake Up the Echoes at Mt. Gilead on September 10.

Columbus, O., Aug. 24.—The meeting of the democratic state exe cutive committee yesterday was very enthusiastic.

They were in session at the headquarters with Messrs. Corcoran, Bernard, Apthrop, Holzer, Ditty, Reinhard, and Danahy present, besides Col. W. A. Taylor, the candidate for secretary of state.

Matters connected with the management were discussed, and thec ondition of affairs according to the reports from various parts of the state was considered.

It was decided to open the state campaign at Mt. Gilead September 10, when the candidate for secretary of state will make the principal speech. Reports from the various counties were very encouraging.

MARRIED.

Two Well-Known Napoleon People Wedded.

Napoleon, O., Aug. 24.—(Special)—Last evening at 8 o'clock Mr. Chas. Shoemaker and Miss Cora Davison were joined in marriage. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. M. L. Donehey, of the First Presbyterian church, at the home of the groom's parents on Main street, in the presence of only the immediate members of the family.

The couple departed on the 8:30 train for Toledo. From there they go to Dertoit for a few days.

FOUR DEAD BODIES

Tell the Tale of a Crime in Indian Territory.

Four Young Men Fall Into the Hands Highwaymen and are Killed.

Dennison, Tex., Aug. 24.—Conductor Reams, of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, brought news to the city yesterday to the effect that a hunting party composed of four young men had been found murdered on the banks of Caney creek in the Indian territory.

Papers found on one of the men indicate that his name was Cherrie and that he traveled for the Willamtic Thread company of Connecticut. There was nothing to tell who committed the deed, but the purpose was evidently robbery, as all their valuables were missing.

A YOUNG HEIFER

Eats an Overdose of Rubber Hose and Undergoes an Operation.

Delaware, O., Aug. 24.—Two weeks ago a young Teasewater heifer owned by P. T. Engard devoured three feet of rubber hose and a leather buggy top. Of late showing a ravenous appetite, the animal was sold to Newton Shaw. Drs. Shively and Tracy made an incision in the side of the stomach and removed the half masticated hose and buggy top. The operation was dangerous, but the calf is still alive.

VETERANS IN THE WOODS.

Delaware, Aug. 24.—The Grand Army veterans of this city and vicinity picnicked at Greenwood lake yesterday. Nearly 300 persons were present. Music was furnished by the juvenile drum corps of Horshoe and speeches were made by Judge J. S. Gill, Rev. B. F. Thomas, Chaplain Colliar, Dr. E. H. Hyatt and Rev. A. Hollington. A camp-fire in the late afternoon was enlivened by old war songs.

GOT BACK IN SAFETY.

New York, Aug. 24.—A dispatch from New Haven says that the missing excursion boat Bay Queen, which left that city with 900 New Britain excursionists for Coney island yesterday, arrived at New Haven at 3:30 a. m. The boat, it is learned, did not touch at Coney island, but sailed about the New York bay for a couple of hours.

A MINING FATALITY.

Buckingham, Aug. 24.—A Millerton miner by the name of Nalkenbach, was killed by a blasting shot from an adjoining room in mine No. 19, S. C. C. company, at 4:30 p. m. to-day. He leaves a family of nine children in Germany.

WON BY ALICE.

London, Aug. 24.—The Ebor handicap at York to-day, was won by Mr. H. M. Dyas's 5-year old filly, Alice, by Retreat, dam by Solon Magdalene. The 6-year old chestnut horse, St. Benedict, by Edward the Confessor, out of Currer Bell, was second, and Mr. J. H. Houldsworth 4-year old bay colt, Springtime, by Springfield, out of Sunray, was third.

SOUTHAMPTON TRADE.

London, Aug. 24.—The chairman of the Southampton Tramway company announced at a meeting to-day that the negotiations with the Inman line with the objec of having the Inman vessels stop at Southampton were nearly completed and the change would come into operation at the New Year.

FLOYD SEARS DEAD.

Bloomfield, O., Aug. 24.—Floyd Sears died yesterday after a brief illness of one week at the ripe age of 76 years. He has been connected with the M. E. church for years, a zealous, exemplary Christian and an energetic advocate of prohibition.

JAMES TECTOR DEAD.

Shelby, O., Aug. 24.—James Tector, superintendent of the Big Four for the Columbus and Shelby division, died here yesterday after a sickness of only three days.

EX-GOVERNOR CLARK DEAD.

Canadaigua, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Ex-Gov. Myron H. Clark died yesterday at his home in this place.

TO PREVENT CHOLERA.

What Should Be Done When Symptoms Appear.

Importance of Strict Attention to Hygiene and Diet.

An Interesting Cablegram From Paris on An Important Subject.

Paris, Aug. 24.—In preceding articles a correspondent called the attention of the public to the more or less regular outbreaks of cholera that occur every year during the hot season. He pointed out its permanence, or, in other words, its endemicity, in large cities through the persistence of its germ, not for the purpose of denying the distinction that has been made by many between autochthonous or cholera nostras and imported or cholera Asiatica, but to defend the opinion of those who think that the two complaints are only two forms of the infectious disease called by the generic name of cholera.

Without going so far as to agree with M. Jules Guerin in claiming that cholera is never imported, but always breaks out spontaneously under the influence of conditions which in a group form what was formerly called, and is even called so still by some physicians, the medical constitution, he thinks that the disease may appear afresh in any place where it has once raged by a simple revivification of the germs, and that it can also appear, but then with greater malignity, as the result of discrimination or propagation.

In order to explain more thoroughly his idea, a city or town could be compared to a field that is absolutely barren, or on the surface of which were scattered a few seeds that would grow after the first shower. This would be the image of cholera nostras; that of cholera Asiatica would be realized if, under the influence of a wind or a storm, a much greater amount of seed were transported to the surface of the field.

A fact which proves that the two forms of cholera are one and the same disease, that they have the same relation to each other as a mild case of typhoid fever has to a more serious case, is that it is quite habitual to see them both break out at the same time. Thus at the very moment that the cholera nostras appeared in France at the Nanterre asylum Asiatic cholera was reported in Central Asia in the Transcaspian provinces of Russia in Asia with the rapidity of extension that is its fundamental character. Whereas in the environs of Paris the disease advanced very slowly, and in three months' time had not gone beyond the limits of the peninsula of Gennevilliers, while during that time it did not make more than 180 or 200 victims, Asiatic cholera advanced with the most terrifying rapidity from the depths of Central Asia, killing every day hundreds of unfortunates, reached Bakou when it leaped on the one hand to Astrakhan, from which point it threatens Russia in Europe, and, on the other, Tiflis, whence it will no doubt spread to Batoum, on the Black Sea, preparatory to invading Turkey and Southern Europe.

This rapid and incessant extension is the characteristic of the Asiatic cholera, whereas cholera nostras, which is a simple reawenkening of germs left behind by a former invasion of Asiatic cholera, shows little tendency to spread to any distance beyond its original focus, and when it gives rise to epidemics these can be more easily limited. Nevertheless I shall endeavor to point out the means that seem most efficacious to protect oneself from it, especially as these means are equally applicable to Asiatic cholera.

Although the different authorities do not agree entirely on the nature of the germ of cholera, since Cunningham claims to have seen in India cases of cholera without the bacillus which Koch considers characteristic, it is nevertheless certain that two things are necessary for the development of the disease: 1. The presence of a germ. 2. A favorable ground on which the germs can develop. In a word, in every question of contagion or epidemic we have to deal with the seed and the grounds on which it falls.

Preservative measures must therefore aim at preventing the germ from entering the organism, and in the second place at rendering impossible the conditions which favor the development and dissemination of the germ.

The Correspondent.

"Since I am considering to-day nothing but personal hygiene—that is to say, the preservation of individuals—I shall not dwell on the measures to be taken by a state or municipality to protect the inhabitants from an invasion of cholera. These measures can be summed up in two words—health laws and disinfection. The former consists in supplying pure water, in forbidding the sale of damaged or unripe fruit, and in obliging all refuse to be removed, while the latter consists in stopping at the frontiers travelers coming from contaminated countries, for the purpose of subjecting their clothing and baggage to the action of antiseptic vapors, and of exposing to steam under pressure every object that, in one way or another, has been in contact with a cholera patient.

"In addition to this every individual person must combine his efforts with those which an intelligent government has exerted in the struggle against the germs which threaten us. Whether it has arisen sporadically or whether it has been imported the cholera poison exists especially in the dejections and vomiting of its victims. After this it contaminates the ground and finally filters into the water. The principal preservative measure, therefore, to be taken by persons surrounded by an epidemic is to drink only water that is absolutely pure. To prevent any possible mistake it is best to drink water that has been boiled and afterward aerated by beating, or table waters of unquestionable origin, or, finally, water that has been filtered by means of perfected apparatus, and especially by Maignen or Chamberland filters.

"Since, as I have said, the dejections of cholera patients are the principle vehicle of infectious germs, and since in a variety of ways these germs can affect our water and food by settling in linen, clothing, curtains, etc., and by collecting in the open air or in the sewers, it is of the greatest importance to render them inoffensive, and for this reason they should be treated by solutions of corrosive sublimate, 1 in 1,000, or of sulphate of copper, 20 per 1,000.

"Rooms that have been contaminated should be disinfected by sulphuric acid gas generated by burning sulphur, by being washed down by a solution of sublimate acid and finally by having all linen, curtains, bedding and carpets that have been in contact with the patient subjected to the action of steam under pressure. A house in which a case of cholera has appeared should be evacuated whenever possible. The overcrowding of houses should be avoided, and a sufficient amount of air should be allowed to each person. The closets should be especially watched to see that they are kept rigorously clean and to avoid any emanation of poisonous gas; when necessary a jar containing a solution of chlorine should be placed in them.

"The greatest care should be taken in the food that is eaten. Fresh meat should be of the first quality, aqueous vegetables should be used only in moderation, but rice, under the different forms in which it can be used, will be very advantageous; few raw vegetables—melons, cucumbers, salads or radishes—should be consumed. Temperance, in every form, is advisable. Care should be taken not to catch cold, to avoid dampness and sudden changes of temperature, as also every form of excessive fatigue, which, by its tendency to weaken the organism, will become a predisposing condition to the invasion of the disease. Finally, great moderation should be observed in the use of the means which trouble the digestive functions, which increase the motions and weaken the system, such as vomitives and laxatives.

It will be seen from the foregoing that vomiting and diarrhoea are the two great indispositions to be avoided at any price during an epidemic of cholera, and to be treated without delay as soon as they occur. Diarrhoea is the first symptom of the disease, and the more promptly it is treated the greater chance we have of preventing the development of the complaint.

"In cases of simple diarrhoea the best course is to limit the amount of liquid taken and to give only albuminous rice water. The first day a draught should be given, to be taken in two doses at an interval of two hours, and containing fifteen to twenty drops of laudanum, sixty grammes of an aromatic infusion and thirty grammes of syrup of quinces. In addition to this an enema can be given with 10 drops of laudanum, to be repeated two, three or four times a day, according to whether it is retained or not. The second day the quantity of laudanum in the draught can be lessened and the enema can be changed to the extract of ratanhia at the dose of from six to twelve grammes.

"A great deal is thought of a preparation which the Administration des Pompes Funebres de Paris requires its employes to take, at the dose of a liqueur glass, whenever they are told off to bury a cholera patient. Thanks to this precaution no employe of this company, if we are to trust the information furnished by the company to the Prefecture de la Seine since 1852, has died of cholera.

"This preparation, which is made up as an elixir, is composed as follows, per litre: Forty centilitres of alcohol at 36 degrees, 12 drops of English essence of mint, 12 grammes of laudanum and 200 grammes of sugar dissolved in 60 centilitres of water. The laudunum is, of course, the active principle of this preparation, the essence of mint being added to cover its disagreeable taste, the sugar and alcohol acting as a vehicle, and the whole forming a spirituous liqueur slightly stimulating and agreeable to take.

"It seems to me that this liqueur should rather be employed as a curative means at the first appearance of bowel trouble than as a preservative means. Thus, although one, two or three liqueur glasses containing from 20 to 25 drops of laudanum, may be sufficient to cause the diarrhoea to disappear, it is to be feared that the prolonged use of the preparation, although only at the dose of only one liqueur glass every day, or every two days, might cause constipation, which could only yield to the use of a purgative, and I have already said how much prudence should be observed during a cholera epidemic in the use of laxatives.

As a preventive means some physicians prefer to use, instead of laudanum, which acts by lessening the serous secretion of the intestine or by moderating its movements, lactic acid, which seems to have an action on the infectious germ itself by creating a medium which is unfavorable for its reproduction. M. Hayem says that in case of epidemic he would not hesitate to give this drug as early as possible at the dose of 15 to 20 grammes per 24 hours, and that he could even use it as a prophylactic means at the dose of from four to six grammes a day.

The good results that have been obtained by the use of lactic acid in the treatment of diarrhoea in children are calculated to give considerable weight to M. Hayem's idea. The formula is as follows: Lactic acid, 4 to 6 grammes or 15 to 20 grammes; syrup of sugar, 200 grammes; water, 800 grammes—to be taken half a glass at a time between meals. It will be interesting to see whether experience will substantiate these hopes.

These are the principal means to be taken to avoid getting the cholera. In one of my next articles I will give the best method of treatment to be employed when an attack has actually declared itself.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The Supreme Council Down to Business.

A Rain Storm Spoiled the Pyrotechnics.

Prize Drilling Commenced in the Ball Park and to Continue Through the Week—A Small Crowd.

Kansas City, Aug. 24.—The great Pythian parade is over, and there are many in camp Shaw this morning who are feeling the bad effects of the long march through the streets.

The Sir Knights were tired long before the end of the march, but a few minutes' rest and a supper made them feel recuperated and they proceeded to have a night of pleasure.

Here is where they made a mistake for the unwonted exercise combined with additional excitement and running around with a combination of late hours has made them weary. The buisness men of Kansas City did not wish to be thought wanting in hospitality and the result was that over 300 of them were out with bands and banners to give the visitors a royal greeting and when the armies of pleasure seekers got together they proceeded to "make Rome howl" in a manner that astonished the natives.

The fireworks of which so much was expected were postponed on account of the weather. Just as the crowd got in good position to witness the exhibition and the first few pieces were set off a big rain cloud which had been threatening all evening came over the place and emptied a few lakes of water on the ground and caused a hurried hiding of the pyrotechnics.

As there could be nothing done at the park on account of the rain the members of the different brigades and companies went around to the newspaper offices and serenaded the editors.

This morning the drilling for prizes began and several companies had been on the field by 10 o'clock. This will continue all the week and the awards will be made on the last day of the encampment.

The big crowd of visitors, of which so much was expected, is something of a disappointment as the knights in camp made but little show in the city and the other strangers who were expected to keep the streets crowded have notff materialized streets crowded have not materialized able showing.

The fact is that while many thousands came in they went out again on the same day, and the result is that hundreds of people who went to great expense to help make things comfortable for the visitors are now holding large numbers of empty cots and beds for which they are in goodly sums of money and which will net them heavy loss.

To-day the supreme lodge is in session behind closed doors and the reports of the supreme officers is demanding all the attention. The knights who are not members of this august body and who are not on duty at the drill ground are taking in the city on the cable cars and uniforms are to be seen everywhere.

PROFITS OF SOUVINIRS

World's Fair Visitors Will Do the Contributing.

Uncle Sam May Never Have to Redeem Them.

Some Interesting Letters by Financiers Gathered From the Workings of the National Treasury.

Washington, Aug. 24.—In the light of the proposition to sell the souvenir half-dollars of the Columbian exposition for one dollar each, it is interesting to calculate who is going to pay the $2,500,000 which congress voted to the world's fair as a gift and the $2,500,000 to be realized as a premium on the coins.

It is evident that the world's fair directors and speculators do not expect any of these coins to b eput in circulation.

Although they are good for fifty cents in the purchase of any article of commerce, it is evidently the calculation of the world's fair directors that all of them will be wanted as souvenirs, and that they will be put away in souvenir collections and never get into circulation. In this case they will never be presented to the treasury for redemption or exchange.

It would not make any difference to the purchaser of the souvenir whether i twas made of brass or copper or gold. Its value is not a coin value, but a value as a souvenir. It is unfortunate, then, that the government did not have the foresight to make these coins of one of the baser metals, and thus save the difference between the cost of the silver and the cost of brass or copper.

The exact cost of the silver will be the government's contribution to this $5,000,000. This will be about $1,500,000. The coins will be made of subsidiary coins now in the treasury, but the silver of which they will b emade would cost the government not more than $1,500,000 if bought in the market to-day; so the actual contribution of the government will be $1,500,000 in silver and the cost of coining the 5,000,000 half dollars.

The world's fair people will contribute nothing. The public (here and abroad) will contribute the remainder of the $5,000,000—that is $3,500,000. So $3,500,000 will be one of the items of tribute paid by the visitors to the exposition. They will get in return for it $1,500,000 worth of silver coined into souvenirs.

The postoffice department is going to do a much better stroke of business than the treasury department in the matter of souvenirs. Third Assistant Postmaster-General Hazen says that the number of the jubilee stamps which will be retired from circulation by the stamp collectors will mount up to the hundreds of thousands.

What does the government make on these stamps? Under the contract with the American Bank Note company ordinary stamps cost 7 47-100 cents per 1,000. Take the lowest estimate made by Mr. Hazen—100,000 stamps retired by the stamp collectors. There are ten denominations of ordinary stamps. They are the one, two, three, four, five, six, ten, fifteen, thirty and ninety cent stamps.

No collector of stamps would be satisfied without af ull line of these stamps—the entire series. The face value of them aggregates $1.66. One hundred thousand stamps would be 10,000 sets, the face value of which would be $16,600. At 7 47-100 cents per 1,000, these 100,000 stamps would cost the government just $7.47. Profit on the stamps retired from circulation by the stamp collectors at the time of the issue of the "jubilee stamps"—$16,592.53.

From this, of course, would have to be taken the cost of the new dies and plates for printing teh new stamps. This is a serious question for the dies for the two-cent stamp cost $1,200 and for those for the other stamps $500 each—a total of $5,700.

But Mr. Hazen believes that the number of stamps to be laid aside as souvenirs will be nearer 300,000 than 100,000 and the profit on them, exclusive of the cost of plates and dies, is likely to be $20,000 or $25,000. If the issue of stamps like the issue of coins could be limited to 5,000,000, it would be safe to say that more than one-half of them would be without cancellation. The modest little profit of the government on these, under favorable conditions, wuld be $409,113.25.

It is not often that a bank makes money by failing, but, according to the record, that is what two Chicago banks whose affairs have passed through the hands of the comptroller of the currency have done. One of these is the Park National bank, which went into the hands of a receiver in July, 1890. The receiver has paid principal and interest and has turned over the affairs of the bank to an agent who is now straightening them out with the intention of going ahead with the business of the bank for the old stockholders.

When the bank failed the face value of its assets was $769,000; but of these the receiver estimated only $342,000 as good, $256,000 as doubtful and the remainder as bad. The receiver collected $443,500 from these assets and paid $415,000 principal and $33,000 interest dividends to the cdeditors of the institution.

When he turned the bank over to the agent chosen by the stockholders there was enough property on hand to realize the amount of the original capital of the bank and start another in its place.

This surprising condition of affairs was brought about by the fact that the bank owned a large amount of real estate in the suburbs of Chicago which so increased in value during the receivership that, under the careful management of the receiver the affairs of the bank were straightened out to the satisfaction of stockholders and creditors alike.

This experience recalls the failure of the National bank of Missouri at St. Louis in June, 1877.

The failure was considered a very bad one. The liabilities were $1,935,771, and although the nominal assets were $4,822,100, their real value was estimated so low that the receiver thought it necessary to levy an assessment on the stockholders of the bank.

The assessment aggregated $625,000 and about one-half of it was collected. Walter H. Johnston was the receiver of the bank. A few years ago he turned in his final report as receievr, showing all of the debts of the bank paid with interest and valuable property on hand. Part of this property was an acre of ground on the line of a fashionable boulevard—Lindell avenue—which had been opened to Forest park.

This property was in dispute when the receiver took possession of the bank's assets and he paid out some $15,000 to perfect the title to it. Before he gave up the receivership he had an offer of $200,000 for it. An agent is now conducting the affairs of the stockholders of the National Bank of Missouri.

IS THERE TROUBLE AHEAD?

Commercial Telegraphers Well Organized.

They Have Violated the "Cast Iron Agreement."

They Are in Full Sympathy With the Order of Railroad Telegrapher's Grievances.

New York, Aug. 24.—There has been a meeting of the New York Council of the Order of Commercial Telegraphers at which organizers were present from a number of surrounding cities. Charters were granted to eight new councils, and applications for membership were received from a hundred operators employed by two telegraph companies in this city.

This is the largest number of applicants the council has considered at any time since it was organized. The council mapped out a plan of campaign in New York. This was made imperative, it was explained, by the condition of affairs in the Western Union's big office in this city. Great dissatisfaction was said to exist there among the men.

The order of Commercial Telegraphers came into actual existence two years ago. For two years prior to that time, however, the operators had been organizing. The movement then was confined to what is known as the younger or "unheard of" element—those whose reputations were not extensive. The older heads were known to be opposed to organization on account of past experiences, and the men at the head of the new movement grew slowly but surely, until it had taken in all the old men, just as it expected to.

The new organization was formed on different lines, however, from the famous Brotherhood of 1883. Each city had an organization of its own. Councils were organized in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Omaha, Kansas City, Denver, San Francisco, New Orleans, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Boston, and, in fact, throughout the country.

At the time these councils were being formed the companies got an inkling of the scheme. The Western Union tried to strangle it. Six of the most prominent operators in the Western Union's employ in St. Paul were discharged because they were known to be at the head of the local organization there. Four of the company's crack telegraphers in St. Louis were discharged the same day, after having been asked to withdraw from the organization and having refused to do so. It was given out that the company intended to extinguish every spark of organization. Men in other cities supposed to be prominent in the organizating scheme were dropped in bunches of twos and threes. All these discharged men got situations with private firms and individuals right away, and the other operators in the employ of the company continued to work, apparently unconscious of what the company had upon its mind.

This apparent listlessness, however, was all assumed. While pretending to bow to the company's will the men were quietly perfecting their local organizations. When this was accomplished there was a convention of the various councils, and the order of Commercial Telegraphers was evolved. That was two years ago. Everything went off so smoothly, however, that the company suspected nothing, and its officials will be somewhat startled to learn through the Sun to-day what a firm foothold their men already have.

The order of Commercial Travelers describes itself in a confidential little pamphlet, which is circulated among the operators.

"As one of the most vital and indispensable agents of modern commerce," the preamble says, "as a powerful accessory to the advancement of civilization, and a subtle safeguard for the protection of life and property, telegraphic labor holds an acknowledged place second to none in all the wide field of human industry.

"When the telegraphic strike of 1883 was ended the Western Union, smarting under the loss of millions its own arrogance had cost, sought to bind the operators into perpetual submission by compelling them to sign an alleged 'iron-clad agreement' never again to join a labor organization. A more senseless blunder was never made by any corporation deriving from the people its right to exist. Men indulged in the formality of signing the document, under the duress of existing want, because they realized, as many of them then declared, that such an article was not worth the paper on which it was written; it lacked the essential element of contract, namely, consent; and, furthermore, it was aimed to vitiate one of those rights of which an American citizen cannot legally divest himself.

"We still cling with unalterable devotion to the principle that the natural right of man to associate with his fellow men is as inalienable as it is just, and can never be surrendered without robbing manhood of its most sacred attribute.

"Dearly bought experience has taught us that methods once cherished and relied on have proved sadly impotent and must be relinquished. We would build a telegraphers' organization, founded upon carefully defined principles, guided by conservative counsel, and governed not by the impulses of the restive law, but by the calm and concentrating deliberations of all concerned."

The pamphlet then goes on to show that there is no possibility of hasty action by any minority, and corroborates this statement by quoting the following on "Strikes and Lockouts," from the order's constitution:

Section 1. In the establishment of any fund, for the purpose hereafter set forth, we declare that strikes are deplorable in their effect and seldom consistent with the best interests of those involved, and, therefore, nothing shall be construed to give sanction to such efforts for the adjustment of any difficulty, except in strict accordance with the laws laid down in this article.

Sec. 2. No strike shall be declared or entered into by any member or members of any local council without the sanction of the executive committee of the grand council.

* * * * * * * * * *

Sec. 4. No grievance of any character whatever shall be referred to the executive committee of the grand council except by a seven-eighths vote of all the aggrieved council's members in good standing, both absent and present.

That the orders believes in strikes as a last resort is distinctly stated in the pamphlet in these words:

"When a grievance becomes so patent, glaring, and intolerable that seven members out of every eight protest, and in a body tender their resignations as the only alternative of refused redress, then the action will stand in public view as a just verdict, whose dignity cannot be impaired by the use of such epithets as 'lockout' and 'strike.'"

The pamphlet then explains in detail the principles and purposes of the Order of Commercial Telegraphers. "We purpose," it says, "by the establishment of our benefit fund to form an association of telegraphers that shall substantially embody the essential object of kindred associations, namely, a weekly allowance during the entire period of actual illness, and we would respectfully urge upon all operators the desirability of availing themselves of the benefits conferred by this fund, in preference to affiliation with foreign associations of similar purport.

"We would use every honorable means to secure a correction of the gross inequalities in the existing scheme of women's wages. Equal pay for equal work means simple justice to all; and a system which discriminates against woman solely on account of her sex—when exacting from her the same amount of work as from man—is repugnant alike to justice and to honesty.

"We are unalterably opposed to * * * the present insidious wage system, which fosters alike the opportunity and the necessity for overwork, blinding the underpaid operator with the alluring phantom of extra remuneration for toil that is actually beyond his physical power to perform; while, through the aid of an iniquitous sliding scale, salaries are being systematically depressed.

"We deprecate the indiscriminate teaching of students, the inevitable tendency of which is to lower salaries by creating abnormal competition. Ample provision, however, is made for the consideration of individual cases among members."

One of the officers of the order and a well-known telegrapher said to a Sun reporter yesterday that the organization is already nearly as strong as the old Brotherhood of 1883.

"In some respects," he continued, "it is stronger. At the time of our strike nine years ago only the commercial men were organized, and when they went out railroad operators took their places. But we would experience nothing of the kind now in the event of trouble.

"The railroad men themselves are thoroughly organized. Their organization is called the Order of Railway Telegraphers, and they are very strong. While their organization and ours are not affiliated in any way, still there is a tacit understanding on both sides that each will support the other. If the railroad operators should strike, no commercial men could be got to take their places, and vice versa."

Referring to the alleged dissatisfaction among the operators in New York, he said: "The Western Union's office in this city is in the worst shape I have ever seen it in during the many years I have worked here. There are something like 1,000 operators employed in this office alone, and the dissatisfaction is such that the men are almost in open revolt.

"The attitude of the company toward us since we got in the new operating room has been such as to make the men red hot to organize and get revenge. Chiefs are appointed whose qualifications are something else besides ability, and they make the men's lives during the eight or nine hours they are on duty as nearly unbearable as they possibly can. Obnoxious orders cover the bulletin boards, and men are suspended and discharged upon the least provocation. And all this in the face of the fact that the company was never so short-handed as it is this summer.

"Salaries have gone to smash. The standard for first-class men is now $16 a week. Heretofore it had always been $18.40. Very few men are being taken on at that figure, however. The majority of them get $12. The method of hiring these men is terribly unjust. If a new man applies for a position and passes the 'test' successfully he is told to report for work on a certain day. He is not told, however, how much his salary will be. He doesn't find that out until payday comes around. Then he gets his voucher and discovers that he is getting $12 a week. The chances are, in the last job he held he got $18.40. The high-priced men are being dropped slowly, and their places are then filled by cheaper ones. I know a dozen men at least who have been frozen out of the office for no other reason than that they got too much money.

"Owing to the short-handed condition of the company the men are worked like slaves. The night men, whose tour of duty is from 5:30 p. m. to 1:30 a. m., are ordered to report for day work every day. Failure to report once means suspension; failure to report twice means dismissal. The men on the day force are compelled to work nights, while the 'split trick' men, who are on duty from 11:30 a. m. until 9 p. m., have to report for work every morning at 8 o'clock, and in some instances are kept on until midnight or after.

"All these things set the men to grumbling and to talking of the benefits of an organization. As a result the New York council of the Order of Commercial Telegraphers has grown mightily during the summer. The order got an extra boom, too, I think, through the discharge of J. F. Howell, one of the best telegraphers who ever rattled a key. He had worked for the company for many years. Of late, however, he has been marked because of his connection with the Message, a publication devoted to the profession. He championed the cause of the men in print and he got his head cut off. Since Howell was discharged applications have been fairly pouring in upon the New York council of the Order of Commercail Travelers from operators who want to become members. I predict that before very long something interesting will happen."

TERRIBLE ITCHING

Used Everything Five Months—In Three Weeks not a Scar or Pimple—Cured by Cuticura.

When my baby was three months old his cheeks and forehead began to break out with white pimples on red surface. In a few days itching commenced, which was terrible. After he would rub it, matter would ooze from the points. In a short time it spread over the top of his head, then scabs soon formed on head and face. We used everything we could hear of for nearly five months. It grew worse all the time. I saw your advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES in the "Chicago Weekly." We purchased CUTICURA REMEDIES and commenced their use. In three weeks' time there was not a sore or pimple, not even a scar, on head or face. He is nineteen months old now, and has no signs of the disease. His scalp is healthy and he has a beautiful head of hair. (See portrait herewith.)

NIGHTINGALE ONCE MORE

Two-Fifteen and a Quarter at Hartford.

News of the Diamond and Track.

Cleveland's Ball Club Continues to Mount the Pennant Pole—General Mention.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 24.—Quite 3,500 people saw the races at Charter Oak park. The weather was pleasant, the track was in splendid condition and the racing was interesting. All three races were won by the favorites. J. C. Hamlin captured two of them. His Nightinglae won the 2:19 trotting race and his Robert J. won the free-for-all pace. The third race, the 2:25 trot, was won by Darlington after that horse had been knocked out of the first heat by an accident. Darlington broke at the first turn in the first heat. Guy Miller, the driver, tried to get out of the way of Jessie Sheridan, but in some way they got together and Jessie's foot struck into the wheels of Darlington's sulky. The wheel was wrenched off, Miller was pitched out and the horse was thrown down. Laudenburg, who was driving Jessie Sheridan, had to bring her to a standstill. Only Rose Filkins and Shipman finished the heat. Clay Forest was taken from the track before the heat was started on account of his bad behavior in scoring. As the accident seemed due to one's carelessness or bad intent, both horses were permitted by the judges to start in the next heat.

Grant's Abdallah lowered the track's record by taking the third heat of the pacing race in 2:11. The best previous performance on the Charter Oak track was by Little Brown Jug ten years ago, when the mile was done in 2:11 3-4. Many of the finishes were close and exciting, and there was an apparent effort on the part of all the drivers to win if possible. The summaries:

Newport, R. I., Aug. 24.—The twelfth annual tournament of the National Lawn Tennis association opened yesterday morning on the Casino courts under the most favorable auspices. The veteran James Dwight acted as referee, and shortly after 10:30 o'clock the play was on in 11 courts, providing for all six matches in the preliminary round, one of which was defaulted, and for six in the first. The great match of the day between Malcolm Chace and Knapp was played on the court directly in front of the theater piazza. The play began a trifle slow at first and soon the score got to deuce, and there it hung, neither being able to get the necessary two games in succession. Finally Knapp took two points on Chace's drives out of court, and with them the first set—6-4. Knapp got the deciding set and the match. The summary of the morning's play so far as the matches were completed is as follows. Preliminary round: McEtterick beat F. R. Stevens, 7-5, 6-1, 6-0; Green beat Cozzens, 9-7, 6-4, 6-1; Post beat Bixby, 6-4, 6-8, 6-6, 316, 6-2; Manchester beat Pigott, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3; Horton beat Stille, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1; E. L. Hall beat Lord by default.

First round—Wrenn beat Wright, 6-1, 10-8, 6-1; Knapp beat Chace, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4; Bud Long beat Clark, 3-6, 6-2, 2-6, 8-6, 6-3; Betts beat Pratt, 6-4, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4; Fielding beat Herrins, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1; N. H. Emons beat Wykoff, 4-6, 7-5, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4; Stevens beat Borden, 6-2, 6-4, 6-0; McCormick beat Rowland, 6-2, 6-1, 6-3; Ames beat Winslow, 7-5, 8-6, 6-4; Nichols beat DeGarmendia by default; Hovey beat Bryan, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1; E. L. Hall beat Davidson, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4; Slocum beat Ryerson, 6-0, 6-0, 6-0; Larned beat Fearing, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1; V. G. Hall beat Sears, 6-3, 3-6, 8-6, 6-4; Herrick beat Johnson by default; Codman beat Howland, 4-6, 2-6, 6-1, 8-6, 6-4; Billings beat McKittrick, 6-3, 6-2, 6-2; Horton beat Manchester, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1; Hobart beat G. C. Thomas, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3; Hubbard beat Bruse, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4; Shaw beat Rice, 6-0, 6-4, 6-4; S. T. Chase beat Candler, 7-5, 11-13, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2; Smith beat Huntington 7-5, 6-3, 6-1.

Floyd beat Thompson by default. Barnes beat Geer by default. Roberts beat Gorforth, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Dana beat Tete, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1. A. B. Emmons beat Woodworth, 6-4, 7-5, 10-8.

To-morrow at 10:30 will be played the championship match in doubles. Carver and Ryerson, of Chicago, winners of the western tournament, have not put in an appearance, and are not expected. Accordingly Hall brothers, winners of the eastern tournament at Staten Island, win from them by default, and will contest for the championship with Campbell and Huntington, who last year won the title from Hober and Hall.

The Ring.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 24.—A match between Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Hall now seems probable. Mr. George H. Kline, of the Crescent Turf Exchange, is willing to bet $10,000 on Fitzsimmons, to weigh at the ringside, the fight to come off September 8, so that if the Olympic can make any arrangements with Hall a fourth fight will take place here during the pugilistic carnival.

The officers of the Olympic announce that they will do all in their power to arrange a match of this kind and are willing to agree to their original proposition of a purse of $15,000, with a side bet of $10,000. It would make the total amount involved on the fight $35,000. It is understood that Hall is to sail at once for America, and there is ample time to arrange matters.

IRON HALL RECEIVER

James F. Failey to Take Charge of Affairs.

Similar Action Taken at Baltimore and Indianapolis—The Testimony.

Indianapolis, Aug. 24.—The Iron Hall is now in the hands of a receiver in the person of James F. Failey, a well-known wheel manufacturer of this city, and a director of the Merchants' National bank. The incident in court was the production of a resolution of the supreme sitting practically indorsing the "investment" of $86,000 of the order's funds in certain worthless securities by J. Henry Hays, of the Mutual bank.

This resolution was signed with the name of Dr. J. T. Younghusband, chairman of the board of trustees, but on the stand he repudiated the signature, and imputed it to Supreme Vice Justice Hosmer. The latter was recalled, and said he had written it, but at Younghusband's request. Younghusband had no chance to talk back.

Supreme Cashier Davis was again placed on the stand and produced a number of additional telegraphic orders from Somerby to send him money for "legislative work" in sums of $1,000 and $500. He vowed that upon several occasions Somerby had positively ordered him to send large sums to the cashier of the Mutual bank, thus explaining the order's very large deposits there. After this testimony the plaintiffs rested their case at noon, and on their request a court bailiff was ordered to take charge of the order's offices to prevent the removal of papers.

The defense offered no testimony except a couple of letters. They filed an amendment to the complaint, and their counsel pleaded for time to prepare argument, but the court cut matters short. Judge Taylor said no argument, in his opinion, was necessary. The mismanagement of the order clearly brought out in the evidence made the appointment of a receiver the only course. He severely criticised the supreme officers of the order. Judge Taylor said he would fix bond at $750,000, remarking that "that would cover the amount of assets in Indianapolis, for, if I am any judge of human nature, he will never realize five cents on the dollar from the Philadelphia affair."

Judge Howe was granted ten days to file a bill of exception to the amended complaint, and sixty days to except to the evidence. The appeal bond was fixed at $750,000. No further assessments will be called, and the order's affairs will be wound up as soon as possible.

The Iron Hall at Baltimore.

Baltimore, Aug. 24.—Judge Dennis appointed Charles J. Wiener and Joseph C. France receivers for the Order of Iron Hall. The supreme officers of the order who reside in Baltimore, and were partly defenadnts in the bill brought by Attorney Wiener, came into court and gave their consent to the appointment of receivers. Then Judge Dennis made the appointments. Notice was served on all depositors of the funds. These receivers will administer the fund of $135,000 still remaining in Maryland. Of course they will not assume their duties unless receivers are granted in Indianapolis. Hosmer, the supreme vice justice of the order, who returned last night from Indianapolis, consented to the appointment of the receivers.

Another bill for an injunction and receiver was filed to-day in the city circuit court against the Iron Hall by W. Burns Trundle, attorney for Peter W. Potts. The bill prays that an injunction may be issued restraining the Iron Hall Savings bank from collecting any money due it on mortgages and from parting with any of the funds of the order now deposited in its vaults. The bill also asks that a receiver be appointed to take charge of and collect all moneys and assets of the order within the state of Maryland under the direction of the court.

Judge Dennis signed an order granting a preliminary injunction to this effect and setting August 31 as the day for the order to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent. A bond of $1,000 was filed.

Attachment Suit at Norwalk.

Norwalk, O., Aug. 24.—Clara A. Osborn vs. The Supreme Sitting of the Order of Iron Hall, F. D. Somerby, supreme justice, W. F. Lander, supreme accountant, is the title of a suit begun in court. It was brought to attach the money now in the hands of Mrs. E. Louise Redfield, cashier of the local ladies' branch of the order. There are about $1,800 in Mrs. Redfield's possession, and this method has been taken to keep the money in the city until the disposal of the application for a receiver for the order, recently made in the Indianapolis court.

PORTAGE COUNTY PEDAGOGUES.

Ravenna, O., Aug. 24.—The Portage County Teachers' Institute has commenced its annual session at the Ravenna high school building. Francis A. Parker, of Chicago; Professor J. A. McDowell, of Millersburg, and Miss Winnifred Waite, of Ravenna, are the instructors. A large number of teachers from the country are in attendance, and the session promises to be very interesting and instructive.

TO OPEN THE CAMPAIGN.

TRANSCONTINENTAL.

The Organization May Go to the Wall.

New York, Aug. 24.—The members of the Transcontinental association are today holding a secret meeting at the Windsor hotel, and it is generally thought that the gathering will result in the disruption of the organization. Trouble has been brewing in the association for several months, and it has only been through the skillful manipulations of Chairman Vining who does not like the idea of losing his lucrative job, that the combination has not gone to smash long ago. The trouble is primarily due to the subsidy of $850,000 per annum which is paid by the association to the Pacific Mail Steamship company. The service rendered by the latter company in return for this bounty is an agreement not to compete for the transportation of certain articles in order to allow the roads to carry them at good rates. The Southern Pacific road practically owns the Pacific Steamship company, and has succeeded in getting most of the traffic for which it does not compete, and the other members of the asociation are beginning to wonder what benefit they are getting out of the arangement.

A SMALL STRIKE AT KENT.

Kent, O., Aug. 24.—Last night the Erie switchmen refused to work for several hours, but were finally prevailed upon to resume work. The trouble was, in a remote way, connected with the Buffalo strike, and the end is not yet.

A MINISTER IN PRISON.

Wooster, O., Aug. 24.—Rev. D. G. Moore, of New Castle, Pa., who conducted a colored campmeeting here and left without making proper accounting of partnership money, was arrested tonight and in default of $300 bail ordered committed to prison.

IT OUGHT TO BE POPULAR.

Bakers as a class are not particularly progressive in a business way. There are exceptions, however, and one of the most notable of these is the Worts-Kirk Bigelow bakery of this city. Mr. Richmond never lets slip an opportunity to please the public. Even the issues of the presidential campaign have received his attention, and the result is a "Grandfather's Hat" cake that has made its appearance within the last few days, and which no doubt will be found at all the leading grocery stores. It is said to be a delightful cake, and if a name goes for anything, it ought to be immensely popular.

DA FONSECA DEAD.

Boy Drowned.

Otto Brecker, a boy 11 years of age, was drowned in the Maumee last evening, it is thought, while in bathing. The body was recovered at 10:45 last night and was taken to the parents' residence at 1032 Prouty avenue. The coroner will investigate the matter to-day.

Death of Frank Fagan.

Frank Fagan, of Maumee avenue, died at his home on Tuesday morning. He was 23 years old and had a large circle of friends in the Fifth ward. The funeral will be held Thursday morning at the Immaculate Conception church, and will be largely attended.

Betting on the Pugs.

Betting on the coming Sullivan-Corbett fight is lively in the local pool rooms. Yesterday several heavy bets were made. Corbett has many friends here who are backing him freely, but they want odds and are getting them. John Bolan bet $150 to $100 yesterday that Sullivan would win, and another bet of $250 to $200 was reported last evening.

Youthful Burglars.

John and Samuel Wiggins, aged 12 and 16 years, were arrested last night by Deputy Sheriff Stansbury and lodged in the county jail.

The boys are charged with burglarizing the residence of Maggie Crist in Washington township.

A School Girl Fight.

Maggie Murvihill, a 14-year-old girl was brough tinto police court this morning. She got into a fight with another school girl and after banging each other with parasols, Maggie hit her opponent, Della Oesteander, in the eye with a piece of dried mud. Maggie was commited to the jurisdiction of the probate court for a final disposition of her case.

Gas at the Buckeye Brewery.

Officials of the city gas department allege that the Buckeye brewery has been illegally using city gas.

"The statement is false," Mr. Dennis Coghlin said this morning. "We propose investigating the matter, and when we get through we will be able to show that we are in the right. I don't want to say anything more on the subject just now."

Wandering About Naked.

A naked man has been prowling about in the ravine near Nevarre avenue, East Toledo, for several days. The children and women who saw him were scared half to death. Yesterday a man saw the naked wanderer and immediately telephoned to the police station. An officer and several attendants from the asylum laid in wait and caught the man, who turned out to be an inmate of the asylum by the name of Parks.

The Ohio Masonic.

Leander Burdick returned this morning from Cincinnati, where he has been attending a meeting of the trustees of the Ohio Masonic home. The board, he reports, decided to push the work promptly. Inasmuch as the project is more extensive and expensive than was at first anticipated, considerable more money is needed and a communication to this effect will soon be issued from headquarters.

Joint Meeting.

Last evening a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. B. A. and the St. Cecelia society was held at Friendship hall. The various committees on the recent convention submitted a partial report, which show that the societies will come out pretty nearly even. The following committee on resolutions was appointed: R. M. Conlisk, J. J. Murphy, Thos. Rooney, Mrs. Higgins, Mrs. Walker and Miss Della Mansuy.

Lucas County Teachers' Institute.

The Lucas county teachers' institute will be held in Toledo next week, beginning August 29. The instructors are Prof. G. P. Coler, of the state university, at Columbus; M. G. Brumbaugh, of Huntington, Pa., and N. E. Hutchinson, of the Toledo high school.

Prof. Coler will handle the following subjects: History, Teachers' Training, Pedagogics.

Prof. Brumbaugh's subjects will be: Reading, Geography and Organization of Ungraded Schools.

Mr. Hutchinson's work will be upon the First Four Years of School, or Primary Work, Including Numbers, Reading, Language, Geography, etc. Mr. Hutchinson is well known to the teachers of Lucas county, and his methods of instruction are always interesting. It is desired that every teacher will be present during the entire week's work. The committee consists of H. C. Adams, Mrs. S. E. Ecker and Anna M. Conliss.

Hunting a Policeman.

It is hoped that the man who went down Ontario street to Summit via Madison, last night, about 12:30, bellowing "I want a policeman, sir, police, police," forty or fifty times, waking people all along his "line of route," at last succeeded in raising a blue coat and club. Boarders and guests who were disturbed by his bawling would be glad to know he was finally gathered in.

A Misunderstanding.

The two policemen who got into a scrap the other night and popped their guns at each other were Officers Welch and O'Brisky. The matter was looked up and Chief Raitz says to-day that it was a misunderstanding and that one took the other for a burglar in the dark. This sounds like a very wishy washy story on the part of the policemen concerned. If they are guilty of the disturbance as hte neighbors in that vicinity say they are, they should be punished.

Fire Commissioners Met.

A special meeting of the fire commissioners was held last evening for the purpose of taking some action relative to the purchase of apparatus to equip the new engine houses. When the meeting was called to order it was concluded to defer any action in the matter until the regular meeting next month.

The trustees of the firemen's pension fund met with the board and approved the renewal bond of County Treasurer Hunter.

A New Street Sprinkler.

The street sweeping company to-day received a patent street sprinkler to be used on Toledo streets. The machine is the H. C. Steible patent. The water pours from the tank into two square boxes with a large hole in the top of each, which are suspended about two feet. Immediately below two large wheels with fan-shaped pieces on the top whirl rapidly around, being propelled by gearing from the wheels of the wagon, and throws the water to the curb on both sides of the street.

Star Course Arrangements.

The Star Course management has signed the celebrated violinist, Musin, and his company for the opening performance, Monday, November 7. This is election day and arrangements will be made to read the latest returns from the stage. Marshall P. Wilder, the little humorist, has been engaged for March 8. Wilder is small but his charges are large. He will be the highest paid artist appearing during the course. Wilder will have his own company with him.

Another Pioneer Gone.

Hannah Luny, wife of John Luny, of Washington township, died at her residence on Sunday, August 21, at the age of 76 years, 9 months and 15 days. She was the daughter of Jeremiah and Nancy Sawyer, who came from Brighton, N. Y., in 1816, and located at Waterville, Ohio, when the deceased was but three months old.

In 1832 she was married to John P. Cranker, and lived on the Cranker place the remainder of her days. In December, 1854, Mr. Cranker died. About three years later Mrs. Cranker was married to James Grinage, with whom she lived about two years, when he died. On July 1, 1860, she became the wife of John Luny, who still survives her.

The deceased had no descendants, but had many relatives, and her loss is keenly felt by many neighbors and friends who had no family connection with her.

She became a member of the M. E. church in the winter of '60-'61, and when health permitted was a constant attendant of divine services. In her later years she has been a great sufferer, and has now entered into "that rest that remaineth for the people of God."

The funeral took place at West Toledo M. E. church Monday afternoon, and was attended by a large number of friends and neighbors.

It Doesn't Faze Mary.

Mary McDowell is one of the worst cases in town. She turns up drunk and full of fight regularly at the police station and is hustled out to the workhouse. Mary is 41 years old, but she doesn't look it. If whisky and badness hadn't got their clutch on her long ago she would have been a handsome woman to-day. As it is, she is a wreck. But Mary doesn't care for that. She was brought out of a cell along with some other prisoners bound for the workhouse yesterday afternoon.

"This way to Hotel de Brown," cried the officer.

Mary stepped forth to the patrol wagon, one side of her face bulging out with a chew of tobacco.

"Tanglefoot's a bad thing," said a bystander.

"'Taint for me," spoke up Mary. "'Tis for some folks, but my feet don't get tangled up like some others I knows on."

"Where did you get that bruise on your face, Mary?"

"Oh, I didn't get my swipe in before the other fellow; that's all." replied the woman as she stepped into the wagon. The horses started up. Mary gave a whoop that could be heard a block away, swung her hat in the air, and was off.

Those around could not help laughing, but at the same time there was a strain of sadness in it all. It was a pitiful example of how low a human being could get and still affect the air of indifference.

A BAD PAIR.

Two Characters in the County Jail Badly Wanted in New York.

Last week Adolph Pickens and a man named Rusk were arrested at Owosso, Mich., charged with stealing a horse from Eugene Becker at Maumee, not long since, and lodged in jail in this city on a requisition.

Last night Sheriff McNiel, of Lexington county, New York, arrived in the city and identified Pickens and Rusk as desperate characters, wanted for assaulting the postmaster and robbing the postoffice of Genessee, N. Y.

It seems the two men, upon completing the job at Genessee, went to Piffard, a town near by. The news of the robbery reached this place ahead of them and the landlord of the hotel in the town confronted the thieves with an accusation of the crime, but was bluffed off, and the parties left the town at once.

About a month ago the landlord at Piffard received a sarcastic letter from Owosso, Mich., in which his ability as a detective received a severe drubbing. Later on the letter was sent to Sheriff McNiel who in turn wired the authorities at Owosso the facts of the Genesee robbery and a description of the men, and received word back that the men he wanted were under arrest in that city. He came on immediately and wants to take the men back with him. This, hoewver, lies with the prosecuting attorney. If the men refuse to be taken back it will be necessary to get out requisition papers.

Vortriede Takes Possession.

This morning the transfer of the papers in the Commercial sale were made between Mr. Vordtriede and Mr. Boyle. This places the paper in the possession of the administration, and the Foraker-Capeller crowd are evidently not in it. Mr. Vordtriede has not as yet decided whether he will issue the Commercial from the Express building, but he probably will.

A letter was received from Mr. Cappeller to-day, in which he practically throws up the sponge.

He states that as a result of a conference with Mr. Vordtriede he learned that all of the stock of the Commercial had been turned over to the latter person, with the resignation of all the officials of the company while he was in New York, and that Mr. Vordtriede knew nothing of the Cappeller deal. Hence Sir William withdraws.

WEDDING AT HIGH NOON.

Miss Helen Beach becomes Mrs. S. S. Jones.

At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Beach, on lower Huron street, to-day, at 12, meridian, Miss Helen Beach was united in marriage with Mr. S. M. Jones, of Lima, Ohio. The service was performed by Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Westminster, in a graceful and impressive manner. In the parlor where the bridal couple stood, the decorations were all yellow in color—the flowers being marigolds, golden rod, and roses in bowls and vases. Great clusters of sweet peas shed their delicate fragrance through the refreshment and reception rooms. Mrs. Temple, the florist, had charge of the decorations and they were massed and arranged in the most exquisite taste.

The gifts from friends in Toledo, Lima and other cities, were elegant and in every conceivable form to delight a bride and prospective home-keeper. The guests were limited to immediate relatives and friends of the family. The lovely young bride has a large circle of friends in Toledo who rejoice in her happiness and hope it may be of many years' duration. Mr. Jones is a popular and highly respected young business man with a future full of promise.

THE BOYS AT TENNIS.

Willis Upp Knocks Out D. S. Smith on Singles.

Bert Whitney Wins One Set From J. S. Pratt—The Thing Will Narrow Down to the Champion Finally.

The boys are taking a good deal of interest in the lawn tennis tournament that opened up this morning at the corner of Superior and Lagrange streets under the auspices of the Junior department of the Y. M. C. A.

There was a large attendance this morning to witness the opening sets. The court is a hard dirt one, well rolled and the boys ought to do some good playing.

The drawing for the pairing up of the contestants resulted as follows, for the singles:

R. P. Oblinger v. Geo. Mills.
Clark Upp v. J. M. Young.
Norman Church v. Bert Waldorf.
J. S. Prattv. Bert Whitney.
Willis Upp v. D. S. Smith.
Geo. Qine v. Earl Taylor.

In the doubles the following teams are pitted against each other:

Upp Bros. v. Jesse Sphor and Bert Waldorf.

J. S. Pratt and Harry Bodman v. Whitney and Oblinger.

Taylor and Church v. Young and Smith.

This morning Willis Upp beat D. L. Smith two sets out of three, score 6-3; 10-8, winning the game.

J. S. Pratt and Bert Whitney started in on a game. Whitney won the first set, score 8-6.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the double commenced, Taylor and Church v. Young and Smith.

The contests will be continued, winners playing winners until but the final winner remains. The finals will be three out of five set to a game. Now it is two out of three.

F. E. Warren, the Y. M. C. A. physical director acts as referee. Handsome badges will be given as prizes.

The contest will continue for several days. Seats are provided for ladies.

LUCAS COUNTY STONE ROADS.

Notice to Land Owners of Filing of Assessment on Stone Road No. 14.

Notice is hereby given that the assessors appointed by the board of county commissioners to make an estimated assessment on the lands and lots benefited by the improvement by macadamizing of the

Why is it that Strictly Pure White Lead is the best paint?

Because it will outlast all other Paints, make a handsomer finish, give better protection to the wood, and the first cost will be less.

If a color other than white is wanted, tint the paint with the National Lead Co.'s

Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in small cans, one pound being sufficient to tint twenty-five pounds of strictly pure White Lead to the desired shade.

Be Careful

to use only old and well-known brands of white lead. The market is flooded with adulterated and "so-called" white leads. The following brands are always strictly pure and are established by the test of years:

ANCHOR (Cincinnati)
ARMSTRONG & McKELVY (Pittsburgh)
BEYMER-BAUMAN (Pittsburgh)
COLLIER (St. Louis)
CORNELL (Buffalo)
DAVIS-CHAMBERS (Pittsburgh)
ECKSTEIN (Cincinnati)
FAHNESTOCK (Pittsburgh)
MORLEY (Cleveland)
RED SEAL (St. Louis)
SHIPMAN (Chicago)
SOUTHERN (St. Louis and Chicago)

These brands of strictly pure White Lead and the National Lead Co.'s Tinting colors are for sale by the best dealers in paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

"General Weaver says the outlook for success is good." Whose success?

Those who are determined that Platt shall aid in the Harrison campaign are saying that possibly his silence is the most helpful thing he could render.

The republican press are making much ado about Roger Q. Mills' remark: "I shall never help to make a law which stands in the way of free trade;" and yet it isn't so very different from President Garfield's remark: "I am fully persuaded that every revision of the tariff should be in the direction of free trade."

"Italy sends 5,000,000 eggs to England every week." The poor old English biddy needs a protective tax. Italy labor is pauper labor, compared with England and Italy is a protected country. What strange and contradictory things arise that never get explained to the student of economics.

The great cutlery industry of Sheffield also is suffering from free trade competition. It would seem to me as if the workmen were awakening to the blessings of protection.—Exchange.

A tax on goods, none of which are imported, would help the Sheffield factories the same as a tax on wheat and corn helps the American farmer.

Boston, in her hilarity over the champion ball players and the champion trotter, also gets gay over John L. in common with the rest of the "best." Boston sometimes affects to be ashamed of John L. and disown him, but like the McKinleyites and their free list, when one is on the count everything goes.

Chicago will be the first city in the country to use aluminum in the exterior of a building. A structure 16 stories high, to be built of aluminum and glass, will be erected at the corner of State and Madison streets. The metal has also been used to considerable extent in the interior of the woman's building of the world's fair. The two fronts of the projected block will present a gorgeous appearance, composed entirely of bronze, glass and the light, white metal.

Secretary Foster says the tariff is the issue in the campaign and that the force bill is dead. A good many persons have found out, ahead of the secretary, that the tariff is the chief issue. But Col. Shepard says the president will be recreant to his trust if he shall dodge the paramount question of "human rights in the south." The Colonel and the Secretary are both millionaire politicians, and it is said to be because of these things "the letter" is not written.

The difference in the calamity organs is, some see distress at home and some go abroad to find it. The New York Press says, the government of Britain will have to take care of the idle work people in the manufacturing districts of Lancashire, or they will starve, and glories in the belief that it is true, and in the supposition that his party's commercial policy is responsible for this deplorable condition. Inasmuch as England is our best food customer and our largest buyer, it is excellent policy to rejoice in the crippled condition of her people, providing it were true. The Press will hardly enter the campaign of education, for honors.

Josephine Pollard, a well-known writer of hymns, religious and other stories and of general literautre for children, died at her home in New York, last week. She was one of the happiest rhymers for children, in the country. The New York Independent has published more of her poetry for young people, perhaps, than any other periodical. She has suffered a long illness and death came, a welcome release. So rushed and so busy is this work-a-day world, she who has filled so many lines of space pleasantly and profitably, in the reading world, passes from among us with little comment, and the ranks close up and march on, and yet there are those who will long miss the one voice of song.

Unless all signs fail in a dry time, Canada is fast ripening for annexation. In the Montreal Witness of Saturday are four solid columns of editorial comment on affairs in the United States. No better review and exposition of the report of the senate tariff investigation committee has been given in any of our own papers than is found here. Of the railway strike and its possible extension, it says: "If the government undertakes to control the railway employes it would first have to take control of the railways." And a demand that the city council, accused of boodling, shall clear their skirts by demanding an investigation, has a genuine United States-y ring.

Go to, you man with "soul so dead," take a boatride up the lovely Maumee, look upon the sloping vineyards, the gold and green fields, the dark and cooling shades of park, orchard and forest, the banks of golden rod and sun dials on either side; behold them all repeated in shadow in the mirror-like water, look upon the stretches of yellow lotus blossoms, the lotus blossoms of the Nile—that grow nowhere else in this country but in this particular locality—and come back surprised anew and enthusiastic over the beauty of bank and brae, of isle and field and flood, spread out in panarama for the idler on deck. If the Toledoan had to "go miles to see" it, how he would hustle. The shores of the Maumee from Toledo to Perrysburg are lovelier than the banks of the Hudson, barring the edens created by the pill-manufacturing and other millionaires.

With Jay Gould and Mrs. Frank Leslie back in New York, the dullness is relieved. Mrs. Leslie is just home from Europe, leaving her Willie behind her. She tells a reporter that "her Willie found the climate of America too stimulating for him," which will cause smiles when Mr. Wilde's luxurious, langorous life here is remembered. How must the man deport himself in the "soft airs" of England? It is to be hoped that the moods and tenses in the interview with the United Press reporter, as she landed from La Bretagne are the reporter's own and not Mrs. Leslie's:

If I married happily, all right. If I should have married unhappily, why should there be any comments? I would, in that case, not have been the first woman who had blundered.

The great error of many persons of the egotistic, conspicuous class is the idea that the country is famishing for details of their private lives. It is not of great importance to the general reader, that "Mr. Wilde is not a baby, has gray hairs, a scholarly stoop and a gastric difficulty." With all Mr. Leslie's cleverness, the pity is there is not a greater degree of womanly discretion.

THE MISSISSIPPI FRANCHISE LAW.

The franchise law in the new Mississippi constitution, in its educational provision, discriminates not at all between white, and black voters. One hundred and ten thousand illiterate negroes and 10,000 illiterate whites are disfranchised, but a sort of "rebate" is given those who pass a certain examination, the questions being upon the meaning of the clauses of the constitution. After 1896, if these have not become duly qualified, they then become permanently disfranchised. One hundred and twenty thousand illiterate votes in one state, think of the enormity of a measure that ever made it possible. There can be very little honest criticism, adverse to the Mississippi law. If a voter, black or white, doesn't prize his citizenship sufficiently to learn, within the four years' limit, to read and write and to gain a general understanding of the spirit and significance of the constitution, he deserves to be disfranchised permanently. Mississippi has followed the plan outlined by President Harrison early in the last campaign with the exception of bargaining away southern votes for Harrisonian influence and prestige. The example is a good one for other states to follow.

BIG MONEY.

Three Thousand Dollars a Day to Supply the Strikers.

Homestead, Pa., Aug. 24.—The Homestead lodges of the Amalgamated association are spending in the neighborhood of $3,000 per day to supply the wants of those who are entirely dependent upon these resources for their sustenance. As yet there has been no shortage of funds and all demands upon the committee have been met promptly. The committee claims that its resources are such that this means of support can be relied upon for six months or longer if necessary. The committee is paying the rent for many families, while in some cases those dependent upon the association are living much comfortable than they did prior to the lock-out.

Eighty-nine new men were taken into the works yesterday. To-day several families of the non-union men moved into the company houses. Eleven heats were made in the new Bessemer mill during last night. The advisory committee to-day officially deny and are quite indignant at the report that a boycott has been inaugurated against any Homestead merchant on account of having sold provisions or other merchandise to families or individuals who are identified with the non-union men working in the Carnegie steel works.

TIFFIN.

Much Work for the Court to Do.

Tiffin, O., Aug. 24.—(Special)—Cases were filed in common pleas court yesterday as follows: Andrew Werley, an aged citizen of New Riegel, has brought a damage suit of $1,000 against Mayor Focht and Marshal Peter Gosche, of the village, on account of disease contracted while imprisoned in the village lock-up last March.

Extreme cruelty and habitual drunkenness are given as the reasons for divorce in the petition of Emma Schreiner, of Thompson township.

Marshal Berger, a native of Belgium, has brought a suit against J. V. Magers, receiver of the Belgian Glass company of this city, to recover $2,250 which he says is due him for services as superintendent and manager of the factory.

PENNSYLVANIA.

The Sons and Daughters Gather in a Western State.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 24.—The sons and daughters of Pennsylvania who have made Kansas the home of their adoption are holding a reunion in this city to-day, and several thousand Pennsylvanians are present, every county in the state being represented.

An organization of native Pennsylvanians was recently formed and its membership is being largely increased by the visitors, who are anxious to preserve the associations and ties of their native state. Among the sons of the Keystone state who have joined the new organization are many who have become prominent in the affairs of the state, including several of the candidates on the various state tickets.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Destructive Conflagration in Callao, Peru.

Callao, Peru, Aug. 24.—Another fire broke out early Monday in the hotel Italia, which is opposite the American consulate. The building of the Chilian and English Steamship company caught fire and was totally destroyed, as were several stores and other busines places. The valuable record of the American consulate were carried to a place of safety. A favorable wind saved the consulate building with but slight damage. The loss is estimated at about 250,000 sols and is divided between about 20 firms. One fireman was fatally injured.

HE WAS TOO FRESH.

An Associated Press Reporter Who Got Fired.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—A special to the Inter-Ocean from Coal Creek, Tenn., says: Associated Press Correspondent Hargrave of Nashville, was ejected from the telegraph office at Coal Creek yesterday by order of Gen. Carnes, commander of the Tennessee troops. The charge against him is said to be the too officious use of the privileges given him.

WANTED TO MOB HIM.

North Vernon, Ind., Aug. 24.—The people of this place are excited over an outrage perpetrated yesterday, when Smith Arnold assaulted the 18-year-old daughter of Thomas White. Arnold was having a preliminary trial before Mayor Prather this morning, when he was assaulted by the girl's father. He would have been killed but for the interference of the sheriff and his depties. The jail is now being closely guarded and a mob is expected at any time.

LOWER WAGES.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 24.—The members of the Pittsburg Coal Exchange held a meeting to-day at which it is said a proposed reduction in the price for mining coal was discussed at length. Capt. Bunting and other members of the exchange were seen after the meeting adjourned, but declined to say what had been done. It is learned that the meeting adjourned until the later in the week.

SHOPS BURNED.

Portsmouth, O., Aug. 24.—The Cincinnati, Portsmouth & Virginia railroad shops here burned to the ground entailing a loss of from $30,000 to $40,000. One locomotive was burned and others, with cars badly damaged. The orgin of the fire is not known.

COX FOR CONGRESS.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 24.—Hon. N. N. Cox was renominated for congress to-day by the democrats of the seventh district at Columbia.

Value Received.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker is credited with having given $25,000 to the republican campaign fund this year. It was worth that much to Mr. Wanamaker to be let out of that Keystone bank smash-up without either financial loss or exposure through a government inquiry.—Chicago Times.

DEMOCRATID DESSERT.

Platt Should Be in Fashon.

Now that Tom Platt's coal interests in Tennessee are a bone of armed contention he had better hasten to join Carnegie and Depew on the other side.—Philadelphia Record.

Tears at a Distance.

Mr. Carnegie sheds his tears at a convenient distance, within the walls of his Scottish hunting lodge, while other tears are shed in other humble homes on the banks of the Monongahela.—Baltimore Sun.

Very Strange.

Is it not strange that republicans should preach that high tariffs make high wages in the United States, but leave wages in every protectionist country in Europe lower than in free trade England?—Wheeling Register.

A Growing Conviction

Whitelaw Reid is seriously impressed with the necessity of work if the republicans are to hope for success in November. The more Mr. Reid travels in the west the stronger will be his conviction on this point.—Chicago Herald.

Trembling on the Brink.

Mr. Sherman has no time for campaign speeches. He might adopt the Blaine plan of five minute speeches. It's a queer pattern of statesmanship that won't spare five minutes now and again to save a country from the brink of democracy.—Indianapolis News.

Summing Up the Figures.

In Buffalo, the protests against the presence of 8,000 military to guard the rail road property against 500 strikers are loud and emphatic. The taxpayers are figuring that it is costing Erie county $40,000 to maintain the troops now there.—Rochester Herald.

If Not, Then—

The elections to be held in Vermont and Maine in a few weeks will be the first crucial test of the heartiness of the republicans in supporting President Harrison for re-election. If Vermont shall score up her 29,000 republican majority for governor, and Maine shall respond with her 18,000 or more, it will be notice to all that republican enthusiasm and power are unbroken in the New England states.—Philadelphia Times.

Gently Reminded.

Esteemed republican contemporaries carefully avoid allusion to the vote cast at the last congressional elections. Merely to keep the subject fresh in the minds of the people we may mention that while the republican ticket in 1888 polled 648,759 votes in the state of New York, the congressional elections of 1890 called out a total of only 421,403, a loss of 227,356 votes, or more than one-third. If this rate should be kept up for two years more the republican party of New York in 1894 will be forced out of business.—New York World.

CONTINUES TO SPREAD.

Cholera Has Reached Hamburg and Havre.

Precautions Being Taken to Prevent the Disease From Reaching the States.

Washington, Aug. 24.—At the state department to-day there was considerable talk regarding the reported outbreak of cholera in European ports which are in almost daily communication with the United States.

A large number of telegrams and letters of inquiry were received from persons having friends now in Europe, expressing anxiety for their welfare.

It seems that an epidemic disease technically called "cholerine" is alarmingly prevalent at Hamburg, Bremen and Antwerp. Much apprehension is felt that it may be brought to this country.

The state department has instructed our consuls at all European ports to give the subject careful attention and report often and fully. One steamer now on the way has been ordered to be quarantined upon her arrival at New York.

Although no real fear that the cholera will reach the shores of the United States is expressed by the authorities of the treasury department, they are taking all precautions deemed necessary to prevent its introduction.

Circulars have heretofore been issued to customs officers directing the disinfection of baggage from cholera infected ports.

Assistant Secretary Spaulding was in conference to-day with Dr. Austin, who is acting surgeon general of the marine hospital service, in regard to further precautionary steps.

The health officers at the ports of New York and Boston have been advised formally of the existence of cholera at Hamburg and Havre, as were also the immigration officers at these ports. Mr. Spaulding is also in communication with the agents of steamship lines looking to the adoption of some system of disinfection of the baggage of immigrants before embarking for the United States.

MORE TROUBLE.

General Fleet Has Captured the Town of La Guayra.

New York, Aug. 24.—A special cable dispatch to the Herald from Trinidad says a new and grave danger confronts the government of Dr. Villegas in addition to the assaults of Crespo's army. This time the danger comes from the west.

A story comes to this place, through usually reliable channels, that General Urdantas Fleet has sailed into La Guayra and taken possession of the port without serious opposition. He has, it is said, sent a peremptory demand to Caracas for Villegas' resignation.

It is further stated that Gen. Urdanta violated the neutrality laws by boarding the Red "D" steamer Caracas at Puerto Cabello on August 18 and arresting the congressmen of the opposite party who were trying to escape.

TO GO TO CHICAGO.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24.—Official information of the appointment of John F. Cahill, of this city, as resident consul for the Mexican government at Chicago, has been received here. Mr. Cahill has been resident consul for Mexico at St. Louis for many years and will act as consul for both cities for the present.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 24.—Elizabeth Hughes, of Hyde Park, was found dead by her husband upon his returning home from work last evening. Disgrace over repeated arrests for drunkenness had caused the woman to commit suicide.

EASTERN RECORD.

London, Aug. 24.—The Inman steamer City of New York, which sailed from New York for Liverpool August 17, arrived off Browhead at 1:15 this afternoon, beating the best record eastward by about an hour.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24.—President Von der Ahe denies the story published that he has signed Pete Browning for the Browns. Von der Ahe says he has no use for Browning at his present ideas of salary.

REPUBLICAN RELISHES.

From across the Utah Plains.

That is just the point. It is not that democrats are not patriotic, but that they take mistaken views of what is best for this country.—Salt Lake Tribune.

Washington's Tariff—8 Per Cent,

From every point of view the republican party has the advantage in this year's contest. On the tariff question it occupies a position which every patriotic citizen can applaud. It stands where Washington, Jefferson and Jackson stood—on the principle that it is not only the right but the duty of this government to sustain home manufactures.—Norristown, Pa., Herald.

The Low Tariff McKinley Law.

In proportion to the whole bulk of products imported, the American people today pay a lower tariff than they did in the early days of the republic, and the tariff "tax," as our free trade friends are pleased to call it, is accordingly less burdensome to-day than it was 100 years ago.—Cleveland Leader.

"Plunging Headlong" as Usual.

Mr. Dana is cunningly endeavoring to save democracy, but the task is too great. The "Force bill" scarecrow may keep the south solid, but it cannot save the Cleveland party from defeat. That is plunging headlong to destruction under fat-witted, fatuous leadership. It is beyond redemption. There is no hope for it here or in the hereafter.—N. Y. Recorder.

The White Metal Ghost.

The republican party has done only a small part of its duty by the white metal. If it cannot promise to do more for silver during the next four years than it has under President Harrison's administration, The Times can see but little reason why Colorado should cast her electoral vote for republican electors this year.—Denver Times.

"It Is Given Out."

It is now given out that Senator Hill can be placated by an agreement on Cleveland's part that Hill shall be secretary of state if Cleveland is elected president. Mr. Hill is said to be ambitious of playing the role in the democratic party which Mr. Blaine has played in the republican. The ambition is laudable, but Mr. Hill should remember that every man is not a Blaine.—San Francisco Call.

And Is That All?

There is a great deal of worrying going on over in New York about placating Mr. Tom Platt. One day we hear that Mr. Platt is placated and he is going to turn in and support the republican ticket, and the next day we hear that Mr. Platt is not placated, but is still on his high horse and refuses to come down. What difference does it make, anyhow? Mr. Platt's being placated means just one more vote in the republican majority for Harrison in New York.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

A BOLD HOLD UP.

Highwaymen Walk Off With the Boodle.

Agent Wilson Made to Dump All His Valuables Into a Bag.

Van Buren, Ark., Aug. 24.—James S. Wilson, an agent of the Kansas & Arkansas Valley railroad at Nowata, Indian territory, a station 140 miles west of here, was held up and robbed at a late hour Monday night by three men supposed to be members of the Dalton gang of train robbers and desperadoes.

Traveling Auditor Wright and Traveling Passenger Agent Johnson were engaged in checking up Wilson's books when the bandits entered and covered them with revolvers, at the same time commanding them to throw up their hands.

Wilson was then compelled to open the safe. While two of the desperadoes held Wright, Johnson and Wilson at bay, the third emptied the contents of the safe into a sack. About $1,500 in cash was secured, one-third of it being the personal property of Wilson, the balance belonging to the railroad and express companies.

After relieving Wilson, Johnson and Wright of a gold watch each and what money they had in their pockets, the highwaymen backed out of the door and disappeared in the darkness. A posse started in pursuit, but nothing has been heard from them. If they are overtaken a desperate battle will ensue, as both sides are armed to the teeth.

REPUBLICAN CLUBS.

They are Having a Great Time in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—The largest and most enthusiastic political demonstration that has taken place in the Badger state for many years is in progress here to-day, the occasion being the annual convention of the Wisconsin league of republican clubs.

Almost all of the prominent republicans in the state are in the city, including the entire state ticket. There are also a large number of visitors from neighboring and distant states, notable among these being John M. Thurston, of Nebraska, who will deliver the address of the day. Mr. Thurston is emphatic in his denunciation of the originators of the story to the effect that he was going to take the stump in Nebraska in the interest of Gen. Van Wyck, the people's party candidate for governor, and says that nothing that he has said or done since the republican convention, or at any other time, could by any possibility be construed as implying anything of the kind, and that the story is a lie, pure and simple.

ANOTHER BANK GOES UNDER.

This Time It is a River Bank on the Mississippi.

New Orleans, Aug. 23.—A serious caving of the river bank occurred at Southport this morning. Southport is above the city and is the site of the Mississippi Valley railroad wharves and elevator.

The cave is 185 feet by 80 feet and that much of the wharf and warehouse sunk into the river. The company does not think there will be any further damage.

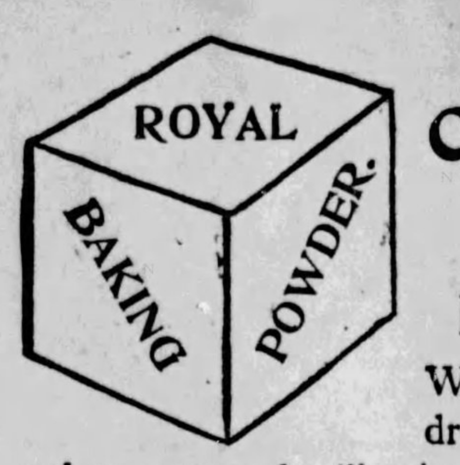
It has ample wharfage facilities above and below and commerce will not be interferred with. The immense Southport elevator has not been injured.

A MOUNTAIN HOSPITAL.

The Miners Caring for Their Sick and Injured.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 24.—A special to the Commercial from Coal Creek says a mountaineer arrived there last evening bringing information of the discovery of a hospital in the mountains a few miles from Coal Creek which the miners have improvised in a cave. He says he saw 21 dead bodies there and a large number of wounded.

Hunters near Caldwell, Pa., are excited over a snow white deer seen several times recently in the mountains.



ONE CUBIC INCH OF Royal Baking Powder Will produce One Hundred cubic inches of leavening gas, and will raise one third more biscuit than the same quantity of any other baking powder, and will make them lighter, sweeter, purer and more wholesome.—See U. S. Gov't Report on Baking Powders, p. 13.

"TAL" HALL MUST DIE.

He Has Murdered Ninety-Nine Men.

Work on the Scaffold Which Will Shut Out the Life of a Bad Man.

Johnson City, Tenn., Aug. 24.—The day for the execution of Halton Hall, the noted Virginia murderer, who is purported to have slain 99 men, will be Friday, between the hours of 10 and 2, at Wise Court House, Va.

The sheriff has now commenced the erection of the scaffold and the death watch has been put over Hall. His friends are now collecting in the mountains with Winchesters and swear that he shall not be hanged and that they will release him if half their number are killed in so doing.

CONGRESSMAN MASON.

He Will Succeed Judge Blodgett at Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—William Ernest Mason, the ex-congressman, politician and lawyer, is to be the successor of Judge Henry W. Blodgett of the United States district court for the northern district of Illinois.

This was the substance of a telegram received from Washington yesterday. Those intimately informed as to the president's inclination corfirm the correctness of the report.

The resignation of Judge Blodgett will be in the hands of the president during the last part of October, when he will assume his duties as counsel to the Bering sea commission. The appointment to fill the vacancy will immediately follow so that the new judge may qualfy for the December term of court. Such, at least, is the present program as told by one familiar with the situation.

Mr. Mason when seen last night begged to be excused from discussing the matter at this time.

ELECTRIC ROADS.

They Are the Coming Means of Locomotion.

Upper Sandusky, Aug. 24.—"A Tiffin gentleman," says the Union, "in town yesterday says the company which will build the electric railway between Tiffin and Fostoria, have a representative in London, England, negotiating with a firm having many millions of dollars at their disposal to build a double track electric railway between Lakeside and Columbus. The road will pass through Fremont, Upper Sandusky, Marion and Delaware. It will be double track at the start, and thereby be perfectly safe. Trains will run at intervals of every hour and the best of accommodations given. Our informant was sure they could get the capitalists interested and that before many months Upper Sandusky will be whizzed through to summer resorts at a rapid rate."

CAPTURED BY A FARMER.

Pittsburg, Aug. 24.—Charles Havres, the man who escaped from the workhouse after brutally beating the watchman and who has committed half a doezn robberies and assaults since his escape, was caught this morning on Herr's island by a farmer named Joe Richardson. The latter knew Havres before he commenced his criminal career and recognized the fugitive on sight.

Mr. John Johnson, who became suddenly rich, was desirous to be known as of a literary turn of mind, and to that end proceeded to lay in a library. One of his purchases was an old dictionary, which, being somewhat out of repair, was sent to the binders. When it was returned to the purchaser he found printed on its back the words, "Johnson's Dictionary." The slight threw him into a furious passion, and he demanded of the messenger, "Why didn't he put the full name on, 'John Johnson's Dictionary?'"

The land on which the Chicago opera house stands, and which is now worth $1,000,000, was sold for $61 60 years ago.

WAR ON THE MUSTACHE.

Every man who is enough of an animal to have a bundle of hair dipping into his soup ought to be condemned to eat with the other animals in the stable.

Some of the Tartars, according to the great geographer Reclus, keep their mouths covered all the time, because they do not consider it proper to expose a feature devoted to such an unpleasant operation as eating. What would these delicate Tartars think of the average mustached man to be seen in New York restaurants?

It would be folly to ask men off-hand to have their lips shaved. Various things must be considered by them and by the public. In just one way the mustache is a public benefactor. It hides many millions of mouths so weak as to make a fellow almost despair of the salvation of the race if he could see them all at once. But it may be that the weakness of the mouths that one sees occasionally are the result of the mustache habit. It is well known that when a man shaves after having worn a mustache for a few years his upper lip is found to be without expression and for many months refuses to smile with the rest of his features or to take any interest in the doings of the face to which it belongs. That is what makes so many men shiver when they are first shaved, and wished that the barber who shaved them were dead. Barbers knowing all about it discourage men who want to have their faces improved, and so the good work is checked. The man who intends to shave must be reconciled in advance to going around with a wooden lip for some time. After a while the upper lip will begin to soften and to take an interest in what the face is doing. Then the man is well repaid for his heroism.

The weak mouth question is not as serious as it might be, for there are very few men, even among the very wise ones, who are bothered by any sincere conviction that their particular mouths are weak. They know that the average man has a weak mouth, but the partners of their joys, especially the prospective partners, would have no trouble in convincing them that their mouths clean shaved would be very beautiful and strong indeed.—N. Y. World.

AN OPEN QUESTION.

It is an open question whether a state is ever benefited in the long run by discoveries of gold and silver. Mines of the precious metals are invariably short-lived. Some of the European mines have been worked for centuries. But in this country a mine is generally exhausted in a generation. And when the exhaustion comes the mining population departs and decay follows prosperity. A good mine is a grand advertisement for a locality. It attracts people from far and wide, and when the mine is exhausted some of them remain and engage in other pursuits. But it rarely happens that a mineral region recovers the population it contained in its heyday. If the Comstock had never been discovered the world would have been the poorer by three or four hundred millions of gold and silver; but it is odds that the fertile valleys of Nevada would have contained more people than they do now. There are no more destitute regions in the world than the mineral regions of Peru.—San Francisco Call.

The coronach, or mourning for the dead, is still heard in many parts of Scotland as well as of Ireland. It is a weird chant, cries of lamentation being mingled with remonstrances addressed to the departed for leaving his friends and relatives. In some remote country districts of Scotland as well as of Ireland, professional "keeners"—that is, old women employed to sing the praises of the dead—are still to be found, though their services are by no means so often called in requisition as they were half a century ago.

TRI-COUNTY FAIR.

St. Marys, O., Aug. 24.—(Special.)—The tri-county fair which occurs at New Bremen next week, will from present indications, be one of the most successful in the history of the society. The attractions are about the best ever offered by any association around here, while the entries in all classes are exceeding all expectations. If the weather is nice there will be a tremendous crowd of people in attendance, and arrangements are being made to entertain 25,000 people on Thursday.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

THE EARLY OWL.

An Owl once lived in a hollow tree,
And he was as wise as wise could be.
The branch of Learning he didn't know
Could scarce on the tree of knowledge grow.
He knew the tree from branch to root,
And an Owl like that can afford to hoot.

And he hooted—until, alas! one day
He chanced to hear, in a casual way,
An insignificant little bird
Make use of a term he had never heard.
He was flying to bed in the dawning light
When he heard her singing with all her might,
"Hurray! hurray for the early worm!"
"Dear me!" said the Owl, "what a singular term!
I would look it up if it weren't so late;
I must rise at dusk to investigate.
Early to bed and early to rise
Makes an Owl healthy and stealthy and wise!"

So he slept like an honest Owl all day,
And rose in the early twilight gray,
And went to work in the dusky light
To look for the early worm all night.

He searched the country for miles around,
But the early worm was not to be found.
So he went to bed in the dawning light,
And looked for the "worm" again next night.
And again and again, and again and again,
He sought and he sought, but all in vain,
Till he must have looked for a year and a day
For the early worm, in the twilight gray.

At last in despair he gave up the search,
And was heard to remark, as he sat on his perch
By the side of his nest in the hollow tree,
"The thing is as plain as night to me—
Nothing can shake my conviction firm.
There's no such thing as the early worm."
—Oliver Herford, in August St. Nicholas.

Mrs. Martha Annie Rex, the aged negress who recently went all the way from west Africa to see Queen Victoria, had put aside her small savings for 50 years to accomplish the trip. She is 76 years old and one of 13 children, who in their youth were all sold into slavery in the United States. What became of her brothers and sisters she never heard, but her father, long since dead, managed to buy his own and her liberty, and they both went to Liberia.

One of the most interesting of the stories evoked by the death of Richard Ten Broeck relates to his romantic marriage to the widow of Victor Newcomb, sr. The elder Newcomb fell in love at sight with a beautiful Kentucky lady, but had already a wife in an insane asylum. The laws of Kentucky did not grant divorces on the ground of insanity, but so earnest was the elderly lover that he got the statute repealed, got his divorce, and married his inamorata. Eight years afterward he died, and on a contest of his will this marriage of his was declared void, "and to save the lovely young widow's feelings," says the New York World, "Ten Broeck, who had learned in some way before hand what the decision was to be, told her his love and wedded her in advance."

A DIAMOND NECKLACE.

She was one of those attractive girls who, as if by some mistake, are occasionally born into a family of clerks. She had neither expectations, means, or dowry. She married a little clerk at the Ministry of Public Instruction. She dressed plainly and she was very miserable, as if she had fallen from her proper station.

She had no gowns, no jewels, nothing of the kind, and she loved only magnificence.

One evening her husband returned home with a triumphant air and holding a large envolpe in his hand. "There," said he, "is something for you."

She tore the letter sharply and drew out a printed card which bore these words: "The Ministry of Public Instruction Mme. Georges Ramponneau request the honor of M. and Mme. Loisel's company at the parlors of the Ministry on Monday evening, January 18."

Instead of being delighted, as her husband expected, she threw the invitation on the table with disgust, murmuring: "What shall I do with that?"

"But, my dear, I thought you would be glad. I had a lot of trouble getting it." She looked at him with a flashing eye.

"What shall I wear?"

"How much would a suitable dress cost?"

She reflected several seconds, figuring out the amount, and wondering also what sum she could ask without drawing on herself an immediate refusal.

Finally she said, doubtfully:

"I think I could manage with 400 francs."

He grew a little pale, because that was just the amount that he had laid aside to treat himself to a little vacation.

However, he said: "All right, I will give you the 400 francs."

Her husband asked her one evening, "What is the matter? Why have you been so queer these last three days?"

She answered: "It annoys me not to have a single jewel, not a single stone, nothing to put on."

But her husband explained: "How stupid you are. Go look up your friend, Mme. Forestier, and ask her to lend you some jewels."

She uttered a cry of joy. "It's true, I never thought of it."

The next day she went to her friend and told of her distress.

Mme. Forestier got a large jewel box and said to Mme. Loisel, "Choose, my dear."

She saw first of all some bracelets, and then a pearl necklace, then a Venetian cross of gold and precious stones of fine workmanship.

All of a sudden she discovered, in a black satin box, a superb diamond necklace, and her heart beat with extreme desire. Her hands trembled as she took it. She fastened it around her throat, outside her high-necked dress, and remained lost in ecstacy at the sight of herself.

Then she asked, hesitating, filled with anguish:

"Can you lend me that—only that?"

"Why yes; certainly."

She sprang upon the neck of her friend, kissed her passionately, then fled with her treasure.

The day of the ball came. Mme Loisel made a great success. She was prettier than them all—elegant, gracious, smiling and wild with joy.

All the men looked at her, asked her name, and tried to be presented to her.

She went away about 4 in the morning. Her husband threw over her shoulders the cloak he had bought, a modest cloak of common life whose poverty contrasted with the elegance of the ball dress.

She felt this and wanted to escape, so that she might not be remarked by the other women, who were enveloping themselves in costly furs.

Loisel held her back.

"Wait a bit. You will catch cold outside. I will go and call a cab."

At home she removed the wrap which covered her shoulders before the glass, so as once more to see herself in all her glory. But suddenly she uttered a cry. She had no longer the necklace around her neck

They looked in the folds of her dress, in her pockets, everywhere. They did not find it.

"I shall go back on foot," said he, "over the whole route which we have taken, to see if I can't find it."

He came back about 7 o'clock. He had found nothing.

"You must write to your friend," said he, "that you have broken the clasp of her necklace, and that you are having it mended. That will give us time to act."

At the end of a week they had lost all hope.

The next day they took the jewel box to the jeweler whose name was inside. He consulted his books. "It was not I, Madame, who sold that necklace. I must simply have furnished the box." They found in a shop in the Palais Royal a string of diamonds which seemed to them exactly like the one they had looked for. It was worth 40,000 francs. They could have it for 36,000.

Loisel had 18,000 francs which his father had left him. He would borrow the rest.

He gave notes, took up ruinous obligations, dealt with usurers and all the race of lenders. He compromised all the rest of his life, risked his signature without even knowing if he could meet it; he went to get the new necklace, putting down upon the merchant's counter 36,000 francs.

Mme. Loisel now knew the horrible existence of the needy. She took her part with heroism. The debt must be paid. She came to know what heavy housework meant, and the odious cares of the kitchen. She dressed like a woman of the people.

Each month they had to meet some notes, renew others, get more time.

And this life lasted ten years.

At the end of ten years they had paid everything.

Mme. Loisel looked old now. She had become the woman of improverished households—strong and hard and rough. With frowsy hair and skirts askew, and red hands, she talked loud while washing the floor with great splashes of water.

One Sunday having gone to take a walk in the Champs Elysees to refresh herself from the labors of the week, Mme. Loisel suddenly perceived a woman who was leading a child, it was Mme. Forestier, still young, still beautiful, still charming.

She went up. "Good day, Jeanne."

The other surprised, did not recognize her, and stammered: "But—madam! I do not know—you must be mistaken."

"No, I am Mathilde Loisel."

Her friend uttered a cry, "Oh, my poor Mathilde, how you have changed?"

"Yes, I have had days hard enough since I have seen you, days wretched enough, and that because of you."

"Of me. How so?"

"Do you remember the diamond necklace which you lent me to wear at the Minister's ball?"

"Yes. Well?"

"Well, I lost it."

"What do you mean? You brought it back."

"I brought you back another just like it. And for this we have been ten years paying. You can understand that it was not easy for us, us who had nothing. At last it is ended, and I am very glad."

Mme. Forestier had stopped.

"You say that you bought a necklace of diamonds to replace mine?"

"Yes. You never noticed it, then. They were very like."

And she smiled with a joy which was proud and naive at once.

Mme. Forestier, strongly moved, took her two hands.

"Oh, my poor Mathilde! Why, my necklace was paste. It was worth at most 500 francs!"

Count Rantzau, the son-in-law of Prince Bismarck, who recently resigned his position as German minister in Holland on account of the government's attitude toward his father-in-law, is married to the only daughter of the ex-chancellor. He was formerly minister to the Bavarian court, but was transferred to the more important post a few years ago. Although a good, conscientious official he is not considered especially brilliant. His wife, however, is by all odds the cleverest child of the great prince. She inherited many of the qualities of her father, is deeply read, and very witty. She is an exceedingly large, fine-looking woman, whose features are almost masculine. Before her marriage to the count she was deeply in love with a young Prussian nobleman, who died a short time before the proposed wedding. Seven children have blessed her union with Count Rantzau.

IT WASN'T A DOG,

But It Took the Curiosity Out of the Car Conductor.

They stood at the crossing of Fourth avenue and Eleventh street, says the New York Tribune. The old lady was completely occupied with a bird cage on each arm, and the old man was obliged to deposit a parcel, two baskets and a satchel before he was able to wave one free hand at a passing car. This latter act, however, made necessary the gathering up of the bundles anew, and progress from the curb to the car was slow and painful. The old lady, whose natural stoutness was tremendously augmented by the bird cage additions, prudently took the car door sideways and secured a seat without mishap, though the car was somewhat crowded. Her husband, however, was only able to stagger on board, drop two satchels and a basket on the platform, and gasp for breath.

The other basket was a large covered one, and he clung to it with such solicitude as to excite the irritated conductor's suspicions.

"What have you got?" he demanded.

"None of your business."

"Yet it is. What's in the basket?"

"I won't tell you."

"It's a dog?"

"Tain't."

"Cat, then?"

"Tain't."

"Yes, it is. Get off the car."

"I won't," said the old man, stoutly, hugging his precious basket and pushing inside the car.

"Get off, or I'll put you off," said the conductor, roughly. "No dogs allowed on these cars." And he reached for the strap.

"You leave that old man alone," called a muscular man up toward the front.

"Mind your business," snapped the conductor. "He's got a dog, and he's got to get off."

"He hasn't a dog. He hasn't a dog," screamed the old woman, peering excitedly over the bird cages.

"I haven't a dog," echoed her husband.

"Leave that old man alone!" yelled the muscular passenger. "You wouldn't dare to monkey with a young man. Come out and settle wid me."

The conductor made no reply to this seductive invitation, but by a quick movement he pried up the lid of the basket, intending to look in, but before that was possible out popped the green and solemn head of a large parrot.

The new arrival calmly surveyed the astonished car and then remarked: "How do you all do? Polly want a cracker? Everything goes'.'

This last remark may have been suggested by the conductor.

He was already on the back platform, gazing pensively down Fourth avenue.

"Dog, hey?" came shrilly from behind the bird cage barricade. "Stop the car! Put us off! No dogs allowed! You pore noodle, sure tain't a cat?"

HOME-SEEKERS EXCURSION TO KANSAS.

The Wheat Crop of KANSAS for 1892 is the largest ever raised in any state, viz.: 62,500,000 bushels, being one bushel for every man, woman and child in the United States. Some of the heaviest yields are in the fertile ARKANSAS VALLEY. You can purchase some choice quarter sections at reasonable figures, in the heart of the Arkansas Valley wheat belt, by addressing JOHN E. FROST, Land Commissioner A. T. & S. F. R. R., Topeka, Kansas. Ask him for free copy of Kansas folder.

Low-rate excursion tickets can be bought to all Kansas points (as well as Colorado, Utah, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, New Mexico and Texas) on the following dates:

August 30, September 27.

For particulars, address Geo. E. Gillman, Pass. Agent of Santa Fe Route, Detroit, Mich., and be sure that tickets read over that line from Chicago, St. Louis or Kansas City.

JARED COTTON AT 76.

His Troubles Have Disappeared Like Broken Ice Driven by a Strong Wind.

There is no man better known in New London, Conn., than Jared Cotton. He is 76 years old and has lived in that city about thirty years, working in Brown's cotton gin factory for 29 years of that time.

His unusual experience in the last year has brought Mr. Cotton into considerable prominence.

In an interview with a writer for The World, Mr. Cotton said:

"Ever since I came to New London I have been troubled in a greater or less degree by an annoying, though not uncommon trouble.

Jared Cotton.

"For the last eight years I have suffered beyond description from the agonies of kidney disease. Many physicians treated me, but I grew worse instead of better and had to give up work. In crossing the room I staggered like a drunken man. I was in such bad shape that I gave up hopes of ever getting better. The insane retreat and speedy death was the only open door I could see to get out of misery.

"Through the providence of God, Rev. William A. Smith heard of my suffering and told me of a remedy that had done him much good. With but little faith I tried the means he told me of. For the first few days I could see but little improvement, but at last, through faithful perseverance, my complaints have disappeared like the ice broken by a thaw and driven away by a strong wind, all through the use of Paine's celery compound.

"Now I am strong and can walk several miles a day and do my day's work. Now I can eat three meals a day with a good appetite and good digestion. Now I can sleep like a baby, something I have not been able to do for many years past. I am thankful to Paine's celery compound for the great good it has wrought in my case.

"My experience is spoken of throughout New London as a remarkable case of suffering and a marvellous cure, and I could mention many in this city who have been brought to health and strength through using this same remedy that restored me."

In August when the hot weather makes people feel weak, run down and sleepless, and tends to depress the nervous system, this compound will be found of great value. It gives strength to the weak, sleep to the sleepless, and makes people well.

BAR ASSOCIATION.

Fifteenth Annual Convention in Saratoga.

Leading Lawyers From All Over the Country Discuss Questions of Interest.

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 24.—The first session of the fifteenth annual convention of the American Bar association is being held here to-day and is more largely atteneded than any pervious gathering of the organization.

The report of the secretary showed a large increase in the membership during the past year, the total now exceeding 1,100 practicing lawyers and judges and every state and territory in the Union being represented.

The proceedings were opened with an address by John Randolph Tucker, of Virginia, and Judge John F. Dillon, of New York followed with a few remarks on the work accomplished by the association during the past year, and also outlined the work for the coming year.

The association has given much attention to comparative state legislation, and as a result of its discussion and work numerous reforms in statutory law and in the modes of procedure and practice have been accomplished.

The work of supervision of the organization is so arranged as to make possible a prompt annual survey of new legislation throughout the long list of states and territories.

A general meeting of commissioners for the promotion of uniformity of legislation in the United States is also being held to-day at the Grand Union hotel. The meetings were arranged for the same time and place for the purpose of facilitating cooperation between the two bodies.

Among the commissioners who took part in the deliberations at the Grand Union were Richard Wayne Parker and G. D. W. Vroom of New Jersey; ex-Chief Justice John W. Champlin of Michigan; Henry I. Beckman of New York; Judge Edmund H. Bennett of Massachusetts; ex-Secretary Thomas F. Bayard and George V. Massey of Delaware. Each state is entitled to three delegates, and most of them are represented. The convention of the Bar association will come to a close Friday evening, when the members will meet for the last time at a banquet to be given at the Grand Union hotel.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL.

A "Paulding" Suspect Makes Himself Scarce.

Paulding, Aug. 24.—(Special)—It has just leaked out that Wm. Atherton escaped from the county jail last Saturday night. He was arrested at Oakwood several weeks ago for horse stealing, and has been in jail awaiting his trial, which was to come up this term of court.

The matter has been kept very quiet by the officials as Shreiff Staley's election was largely due to the fact that his democratic predecessor had allowed several prisoners to escape, four breaking out just before the November election.

Atherton was trusty and was used by the sheriff as stable help. It was while thus employed that he made his escape.

WEST FULTON ITEMS.

West Fulton, O., Aug. 24.—(Special)—George R. Betts, Esq., mayor of Archbold, is seriously ill and fears are entertained by many that he cannot recover.

Memorial services for Judge A. D. Newell, late probate judge of this county, will be held at Archbold, Sunday, August 28, at 4 p. m. When first elected judge, Mr. Newell was a resident of that village where he had long been an efficient teacher.

The republicans hold a convention on the 29th to nominate a probate judge to succeed Judge Newell. There are a number of candidates, among others Prof. E. Wyse, of German township, one of the school examiners. Next to Mr. Braily, Prof. Wyse received the largest number of votes at the late republican convention for auditor.

Edward McDaniel, a young man of 22 years, a resident of Archbold, a railroad employe, was crushed by the cars at Coldwater, Mich., on the night of the 19th. He was buried at his home in Archbold on the 22d.

A VALUABLE REMEDY.

Hon. Edmund L. Pitts, the late president of the New York state senate, writes: "State of New York, Senate Chamber, Albany, March 11, 1886.

"I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters in my family for the past five years, and can truthfully say they are a valuable remedy and effect great cures. I would not be without them. I have in several instances given some to friends suffering with weak and lame backs, and they have invariably afforded certain and speedy relief. They cannot be too highly commended."

FOUND A DEAD BODY.

Fostoria, O., Aug. 24.—(Special)—Great excitement was created at the little village of Kansas, on the L. E. & W. railroad, east of this place, yesterday evening by the discovery of the decomposed corpse of a child in the bed of Wolf creek, about a mile east of that village, on the John Michael farm.

FREMONT NOTES.

Fremont, O., Aug. 24.—(Special)—Miss Jessie Joslyn, a well-known society young lady of Clyde, was married last evening at 8 p. m. to Fred Oversteer, a prominent young man of Green Castle, Ind.

Burglars entered the house of Geo. Kinney, but were scared away by the servant girl last night.

THEATRICAL MATTERS.

A Bicycle Comedy Booked for Toledo.

Bert St. John and His Opera Company — The New Wonderland Musee and Theater—Other Attractions.

What promises to be a genuine and enjoyable theatrical novelty will make its first appearance in this city at Wheeler's Monday evening, August 29.

It is a bicycle comedy, with the rather engaging title Cupid's Chariot.

Geo. Thatcher, the popular minstrel, and Henry J. Sayers, the late manager of Tuxedo, are its projectors and owners.

There is a love's young dream running through Cupid's Chariot, but its central feature is a great bicycle race, just as in A County Fair and other similar works, there is a strong piece of mechanical realism like a horse race, etc. The wheel contest will have a scene representing a grand stand full of spectators. It promises to be the first sucessful employment of the bicycle in an important dramatic role. It will no doubt be worth seeing as a novelty, if for no other reason. Prof. Barber, one of the finest bykers in the country, and the Powers brothers, also experts, will furnish the bicycle flavor and introduce some wonderful work on the wheel.

Bert St. John and His Company.

The Gilbert Opera company is one of the brightest organizations on the road. Bert St. John is the leading fun maker in the cast, and is one of the proprietors. Burt Klunk, his partner, has a firm grip on the financial end of the concern, while Mr. St. John twists the audience into convulsions from the stage.

Mrs. Georgia Tompkins-St. John, whose vocal talent, and ability as an actress are well-known, is the leading lady.

Miss Alice Mahew, another pretty and vivacious soprano, is also with the company. John A. Pratt, who before he went on the stage was leading tenor with the Ann Arbor Glee club, sings the tenor roles. Harry Steadman, E. R. Kellogg, J. D. Raymond and Frank Caughling are also among the bright lights in the company. The best effort of the company is La Mascotte Up to Date, as reconstructed by Mr. St. John. Incidental to the opera the Spanish Mandolin orchestra and numerous bright and taking specialties are introduced.

The Wonderland Opening.

The Wonderland theater and musee opens Monday next. The building has been completely remodled on the interior, and as Col. Wiggins, who has charge of the freaks, says, it is one of the best show shops in the country. There will be numerous attractions for the opening week, among them Miss Jennie Quigley, the Lilliputian; New, the lightning modeler in crude clay; Paul Wallace with his silk industry exhibit; Ando, the Japanese juggler, and Oume, a Japanese lady who is a magician; Le Pettit Freddy, the child actor and musician; the Kernells and others. The museum will open for the public Monday evening at 7 o'clock. Manager Davis will send out invitations to the city officials, friends and the press to-day to be present at 2 p. m. Monday for private inspection.

Thatcher's Tuxedo.

Tuxedo, a play written for the express purpose of introducing refined minstrelsy in an entirely new and novel manner, and presented by the combined forces of George Thatcher's minstrels and Rich & Harris' Comedy company, will be the attraction at Wheeler's, Thursday evening.

In New York, Boston, Chicago and else-where that Tuxedo has been played it has met with universal approbation, and has been hailed by the press as the most complete novelty seen on the American stage in years.

Tuxedo is in the shape of a three-act farcical comedy. Its scenes are laid at the well-known fashionable resort, Tuxedo Park, situated up among the Orange mountains of New Jersey.

A Labor Play.

Underground, a labor play dealing with the trials and struggles of the workingmen during the strike in the Pennsylvania coal fields in 1887, will be put on at Wheeler's Friday and Saturday evenings with a good company and elaborate scenery.

At the People's.

A Barrel of Money draws good audiences nightly at the People's Theater. The music and specialties introduced are excellent and some of the scenery is most realistic. The play will be given the remainder of the week.

HIGGINBOTHAM,

President of the Council of Administration.

The Powers in Charge of the World's Fair Get Down to a Business Basis.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—The new council of administration of the world's fair, consisting of Hon. George V. Massey, of Delaware; Hon. J. W. St. Clair, of West Virginia, and Messrs. Higginbotham and Schwab, of this city, held its first meeting to-day for the purpose of organization.

President Higginbotham, of the board of directors, was unanimously selected as president of the new body, and which will have full control over world's fair matters. A secretary will be elected this afternoon. The chief candidates are A. W. Sawyer, secretary of the grounds committee, and John W. Strong, of the traffic department.

HAMBURG.

Cholera Continues to Move Across the Continent.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The state department has received a cable message from our consul at Hamburg stating that fatal cases of cholera reported in this morning's press dispatches as prevailing in the port, having been pronounced genuine Asiatic cholera and that Hamburg has been officially proclaimed as the cholera infected port.

The great importance of this information in view of the great amount of travel between the United States and Europe by the Hamburg-American line of steamers was at once appreciated by the state department and the dispatch was sent over to the treasury department officials for communication to the supervising surgeon general of marine hospitals for prompt precautionary action.

CAMP MEETING.

Ocean Grove, N. J., Reports a Prosperous Season.

Ocean Grove, N. J., Aug. 24.—This is the great day of the 10 days' camp meeting which opened on Monday. The consecration meeting in the tabernacle, and which opened at day-break, brought out an immense crowd, which was addressed by Rev. C. H. Payne, of Florida, and Rev. Dr. Andrews, of Trenton. At 9 o'clock there was a young people's meeting in the temple, led by Mrs. Palmer, of Michigan. This was followed at 11 o'clock by another immense public service in the auditorium. Hourly services will continue until midnight.

The Sampson well at Waco, Tex., is the largest one in the United States. It throws up 1,500,000 gallons of pure hot water daily.

CLOUDBURST.

Damage to the Extent of One Hundred Thousand Dollars.

Baltimore, Aug. 24.—A special to the News from Roanoke, Va., says a cloudburst visited Roanoke and in half an hour over $100,000 worth of damage had been done and one life, if not more, had been lost.

In the business portion of the city, which is on low land were the principal sufferers. Every store on Salem avenue and Jefferson street was flooded and their contents badly damaged.

A large sewer is being built along Salem avenue and this ditch was soon flooded with water. Barry Smith, a blacksmith, fell into it and was drowned. His body was recovered this morning.

It was reported that two other bodies had been found. It is impossible at this time to verify the report. Rain fell in torrents during the night and is falling now. Sidewalks are washed away and the electric light plant has been flooded.

ECONOMIC ASSOCIATION.

Second Day of the Session at Chatauqua.

Chatauqua, N. Y., Aug. 24.—This is the second day of the annual convention of the American Economic association, and the attendance is very large. The program for to-day includes addresses on economic subjects by Senator Francis A. Walker, who has held the office of president from the first organization of the association, Prof. R. T. Ely, who has from the first been secretary and chief executive officer, Hon. Carroll D. Wright, Prof. Henry C. Adams, Dr. Washington Gladden and Prof. W. W. Folwell. The convention will probably close to-morrow.

A MOTHER OF TRIPLETS

Tries DR. HAND'S COLIC CURE and Secures Rest After

Three Sleepless Nights

MARLBORO, Ohio, April 14, 1892.

The Hand Medicine Co.

DEAR SIRS:—Having used nearly four bottles of your Colic Cure, I forward you this testimonial, hoping it may benefit many mothers with suffering babies. I am the happy mother of triplets, all girls; now 14 weeks old. When they were about 3 weeks old they were taken with a very severe attack of wind colic. There were three days and nights I had two of them in my arms nearly all the time. I tried all the remedies I had ever heard of without any relief. A sample of your Colic Cure was handed me, which I used with the very best results, and I sent for more at once and I shall recommend it to every mother. I feel there is no language strong enough to express its value. I have also used several of the other Remedies and found each to be exactly as you represented them to be. I trust the Lord will forever bless you for procuring a remedy to relieve suffering innocence.

Toledo Has Passed the Fossil Age!

AND IS BOUND TO BE A LARGE CITY, EVIDENCED BY THE THRIFT IN EVERY BRANCH OF TRADE.

More especially is this true of the Furniture Trade, which is attracting buyers from all the States and Territories. As to our business, we have been established less than five years and have had to increase our capacity four times to accommodate our growing trade. We have just added ANOTHER FOUR-STORY BUILDING, extending our business block from Summit to Water, aggregating FIFTY-EIGHT THOUSAND SQUARE FEET FLOOR SPACE. We feel grateful to the public for their generous patronage, and can safely promise that in the future we will better serve all who patronize a live, pushing firm. We have A COMPLETE LINE OF ALL GRADE FURNITURE, from the COMMONEST TO THE FINEST, embracing a large line of novelties of every style and price, so that no matter what your circumstancs may be, we can supply your wants.

Our Drapery Department

Has been greatly enlarged and improved so that now we have one of the finest in the west, embracing any style or priced Lace Curtains or Portiers; also an extensive line of all the Newest patterns in Drapery Goods of all kinds. This Department is in charge of Mr. Martwick, who has just returned from the East, having secured the very newest goods, as well as the latest styles in the art of draping. It will be an advantage to all parties contemplating furnishing to have a talk with him, as he is an expert in that line.

. . . Mr. Stolberg . . .

Has just completed the rounds of all the leading Furniture and Art markets, and secured an extensive line of Art Furniture and Novelties, as well as an immense stock of all grade Furniture. We propose to push our business to the full extent, and with our rooms especially built to reduce the cost of doing business, we will have our Store known as the LARGEST and FINEST, carrying all grade goods and affording the best bargains.

We are manufacturers of Parlor Furniture, Bedding, Office Furniture and Special Cabinet Work.

We invite all to take a look through our rooms and we will try to so impress you that when in want of anything in our line you will feel it to your interest to call and see us.

Yours truly,

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Currents for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 134,548 bu and at five other western points 1,170,188 bu, aggregate 1,304,736 bu. On the corresponding Wednesday in 1891 the receipts were 1,213,242 bu. Excess to-day over 1891, 91,494 bu.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were: Wheat 224,124 bu, and flour to an aggregate of 425,000 bu.

English markets open dull for wheat and corn.

Sheriff Stuart to-day received a card from Edward Vaupell, sheriff of Ottawa county, Mich., offering a reward for the arrest of parties who cracked the safe in the postoffice at Zeeland.

Bradstreet's report of the visible supply makes an increase east of the Rockies of 4,042,000 bu. On the Pacific coast increase 132,000 bus., aggregate increase, 4,174,000 bus. Corn increase 552,000 bus. Oats decrease 488,000 bus. The increase in wheat is 650,000 bus. in excess of the New York report on Monday.

The wheat markets on this side of the Atlantic have been weak and lower today. The news from Buffalo favored shippers and buyers, but it has no effect, because there is wheat enough at Buffalo, and east of Buffalo, and west of Buffalo, and what is left to worry about. The wheat and corn news, including reports of the spread of cholera, was of a bearish character and prices declined.

Corn that was to be a purchase, at every oneleighth decline, has also been weak and lower, and it only proves the deceitfulness and general perverseness of grain prices.

Toledo receipts are shortened up to-day but it may only be a temporary decrease. It certainly is the time of year for decreased movement. The export movement on the crop has been unexpectedly large, but it has depressed foreign prices and thus in a measure killed the goose.

The exports from San Francisco have commenced late, but while weak in ending and in flour and wheat the shipments equaled 605,488 bus.

There is no change in foreign markets at close worth counting.

In New York September wheat closed at 80 7-8c, a loss of 7-8c. September corn at 58 7-8c, a loss of 1 1-8c. September oats at 39 1-8c, a loss of 1-2c.

In Chicago August wheat closed at 74 7-8c, a loss of 5-8c. September at 75 1-4c, and 75 3-8c, a loss of 7-8c. August and September corn at 51 7-8c, a loss of 7-8c. September oats at 34 1-4c, a loss of 3-8c.

In Toledo the trading in wheat futures has been light and without incident worthy of comment except that prices are lower, and from start to finish the market dragged slowly downward. At the close August and cash wheat showed a loss of 1-4c; September and October a loss of 1-2c, and December 3-4c. On the call August sold at 78 1-8@78 1-4c, and closed at 78 1-8c; September at 78 1-8c; October at 78 5-8@78 1-2c, closing at 78 5-8c; December at 81@80 7-8c, closing at 81c. On the regular board August sold at 78c, and closed at 77 3-4c; September at 78c.

Cash wheat was in fair request, with much the largest trading in No. 3 soft. No. 2 soft sold at 78c and closed at 77 3-4c. No. 3 soft at 70 3-4c, with exception of one sale in the Wabash at 70c. Spetember sold to extent of 40,000 bus at 70 1-2c to 70 1-4c. No. 4 soft at 65c and at 65 1-2c in L. S. Rejected No. 1 at 66 1-2c and No. 2 at 63. Smutty at 66c. No. 3 white at 70c.

Corn—No. 2, 52c. No. 3 at 50 3-4c. Ryeon—On the call Spetember sold at 64c. On the regular board No. 3 at 54c.

Clover seed was nearly steady, with only moderate trading. On th ecall October sold at $5.65. On the regular board October sold at 5.62 1-2, and closed at $5.65. November was 10c cheaper at $5.60, closing at $5.55.

Weather Conditions.

The weather of the past week, as recorded by the agricultural department at Washington, is as follows:

New England—Severe drought prevails in Southern Massachusetts; corn and tobacco have made heavy growth; horn-fly causing suffering among cattle.

New York—Week very favorable; corn making rapid advance; buckwheat and tobacco in excellent condition.

New Jersey—Absence of rain very injurious to all crops in southern counties.

Pennsylvania—Very little rainfall; corn, grass and vegetable suffering from drought; ground too dry to plow; some grain threshing; wheat above and oats below average yield; fruit poor, except pears and grapes.

Virginia—Drought has injured corn, tobacco and pastures suffering for rain.

North Carolina—Corn, cotton, tobacco and gardens badly damaged by drought.

South Carolina—Farmers think cotton crop will fall below what it promised a few weeks ago.

Georgia—Complaints of rust and shedding from every section; the crop is generally far below the average.

Florida—Excessive rains in northwestern portions, elsewhere generally deficient and badly distributed.

Alabama—Cotton not doing well; outlook for crops fair.

Mississippi—Weather conditions continue favorable. Cotton opening.

Louisiana—Cotton improving in northern portion and opening fast; though some complaint of worms; rice harvesting begun and a large crop will be made.

Texas—Northwestern counties, cotton will be light, but over other sections light showers have improved crops.

Arkansas—Cotton generally good; late corn injured by drought; peaches dropping off; potatoes rotting in northern sections.

Tennessee—Fall plowing for wheat general; where rains fell acreage increased; general crop conditions good.

Kentucky—Crops in most sections need rain, some corn injured by drought.

Missouri—Necessity for good general rain; pastures short; plowing retarded; harvest generally completed.

Illinois—Wheat and oat threshing well advanced; oat crop light; rain badly needed for corn, pastures, and fall plowing; fruit crop very light.

Indiana—Rain benefited corn; clover seed being harvested; wheat nearly all thrashed; plowing continues vigorously.

West Virginia—Drought injurious to corn; vegetation of all kinds injuriously affected by drought; tobacco doing well.

Ohio—Corn, tobacco and buckwheat in fair condition, with slight improvement; wheat and oat thrashing well along; grasshoppers damaging vegetation.

Michigan—Crops, except corn, doing well, except in southern counties, where drought prevails; corn slightly injured by frost.

Wisconsin—Much needed rain now lightly falling; thrashing next; prospects for fair yield; much tobacco will be cut this week.

Minnesota—Week favorable except in some western counties, where heat advanced corn.

Iowa—Deficiency of rainfall and cool nights have somewhat checked rapid growth of corn.

Nebraska—The normal temperature of the week was beneficial to corn, which, though late, is doing well.

Kansas—Conditions within rain areas beneficial; corn in central and northern counties good, but in southern not doing well.

Oklahoma—The best possible conditions prevail; thrashing begun and plowing general; some corn being cut.

Montana—Hay harvest nearly over; grain ripening fast, with prospects of over an average yield for irrigated crops.

Wyoming—Light frosts in several places; no injury; harvesting continues; crops good.

Colorado—Wheat is not so well filled as was expected on account of hot weather, which has been fine for curing hay; crop excellent; thrashing has begun.

New Mexico—More rain needed to insure winter feed on cattle ranges.

Arizona—Grass much in need of rain; crops in good condition.

Washington—Average crop and good quality expected; grain in eastern portion being well secured, is of good quality, and yield greater than expected.

Oregon—Early grain nearly secured; corn improved; potatoes are drying up fast.

California—Harvesting and shipping progressing satisfactorily; hop crop seems assured, picking about to begin; some grapevines dying around Fresno.

ENTICING LITTLE GIRLS

Away From Their Homes and Assaulting Them

Is the Charge Brought Against Henry Weis—He Threatened To Kill Little Anna Miller.

Henry Weis, a man somewhere about 30 years of age, has been accused of enticing little girls away from their homes and is under arrest. It is alleged that several days ago he approached little Annie Miller, who resides at the corner of Hewey and Vance streets, and enticed her to follow him. The story is that he took the child a mile and a half or so from her home to a patch of woods near Auburndale, where he attempted to assault her. He told her he would kill her if she did not mind him. The child cried out and he hit her on the head and ran. The little girl was taken to a house nearby by the people who found her.

Humane Agent France was notified and he went out immediately and took charge of the girl.

No trace could be found of Weis until a day or so ago, when he enticed a 7-year-old girl by the name of Myers, living on Missouri streets, to go to the same patch of woods. He was captured.

The case came up in police court this morning, and the little Miller girl was present to swear against the prisoner, but it was found that she was not yet well enough. The fright and injuries received at the hands of the brute Weis has left the child very nervous and unable to speak. The case was continued until Saturday in hopes that the child will be better.

There have been a number of cases where girls have been picked up on the outlying streets at about dusk. In some instances the cries of the children have raised an alarm and the offenders have escaped. Men who are up to such tricks should be given the full penalty of the law.

GAS IN A SEWER.

Six Men Come Very Near Losing Their Lives.

New York, Aug. 24.—Six men employed by the public department of public works were nearly suffocated this morning by gas while working in a new sewer along the East river between 24th and 25th streets.

THE OLD SOLDIERS

Of the One Hundred and Thirtieth O. V. I.

Are Holding Their Fourth Reunion at Presque Isle To-Day.

Members of the ten companies composing the One Hundred and Thirtieth regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry, are enjoying their fourth reunion to-day at Presque Isle.

About one hundred and sixty members went down on the 10:30 boat this morning, and several hundred more are expected this afternoon.

Upon arriving at the island, the companies formed in line and marched to headquarters, where the visiting members were welcomed in a brief speech by Mayor Emmick, who, as a member of the regiment, greeted them as comrades, extended to them the freedom of the island, and wished for many happy returns of the day.

After the address a business meeting was held.

Dinner was provided for all members of the regiment and their families at the expense of Toledo members.

The afternoon is being devoted to renewing old acquaintance, reminisceneing, song-singing, volunteer speechmaking and a general good time.

History of the Regiment.

The One Hundred and Thirtieth Ohio was the first regiment of Ohio militia, and was one of the 41 regiments of militia furnished by Governor Brough to the war department for a period of 100 days.

It was organized at Johnson's Island, O., from the 13th to the 31st of May, 1864. It was composed of the First regiment Ohio National Guard, from Lucas county, and the Seventy-fifth battalion Ohio National Guard, from Fulton county. The regiment left Toledo May 12, 1864, to report to Brigadier-General Hill, at Sandusky, for consolidation and mustering. It moved to Johnson's Island, and was engaged in guarding rebel prisoners. On the 4th of June the regiment took the cars for Washington city. It remained there three days, and then embarked on the transport George Weems, and reported to General Butler at Bermuda Hundred, from which place it was ordered to Point of Rocks. The time was occupied in drilling, digging rifle-pits and picketing the lines, until the 21st of June, when it marched to Deep Bottom. On the 11th of August it marched to Bermuda Hundred, and proceeded on transports to Fort Powhatan, where it was ordered to be mustered out. It was mustered out at Toledo, O., September 22, 1864, on expiration of term of service.

On the roster of the regiment are many names, familiar as household words to Toledo people, some of them being Sylvester Brown, Thomas Ridenour, Jas. V. Ten Eyck, Myron H. Parmlee, William C. Cheney, Frederick Ingold, Edwin Jacoby, Jacob Engelhart, Frederick P. Waite, Frank F. Dewey, Geo. W. Reynolds, jr., James H. Wolcott, E. S. Lloyd, John C. Wuerfel, Wendell Hassenzahl, M. Koch, Geo. Kapp, John Phelps, Chas. S. Phillips, Thomas S. Secor, Austin Bishop, Henry Laskey, Ira Houghton, and many more.

Field and Staff.

The regiment is officered as follows:
Colonel—Chas. H. Philips.
Lieutenant colonel—John Faskin.
Major—Elijah B. Hall.
Surgeon—S. S. Thorn.
Assistant surgeon—Calvin Hathaway
Adjutant—Will B. Dix.
R. Q. M.—Minot J. Wilcox.
Chaplain—James W. Alderman.
Ser. Maj.—W. H. Burritt.
Q. M. S.—Peter V. Moore.
Com. Ser.—George T. Watson.
Hos. Std.—John B. Fella.
Prin. Mus.—William Burge.

Among the distinguished members present to-day are Captain Richard Waite, Captain Dan Collins, Major V. J. Emmick, ex-Chief Fire Department John Nagely, Uncle Nate Gardner, Oregon township; Hon. John Meisner, Thomas Secor, Washington township; William Leybourn, Washington township; George Dixon, Washington township; E. L. Griers and George H. Blaker, of Liberty Center; E. E. Richards and daughter, Mrs. Jennie Baldwin, president of the Ladies' Aid society, auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans, and Judge F. L. Nichols, probably the oldest survivor of the civil war.

The Toledo boys furnished an elegant spread, no pains have been spared to make the fourth reunion the best one and even the rain is powerless to dampen the gay spirits of these old warriors.

Monument.

TEMPORARILY INSANE.

Zanesville, O., Aug. 24.—Miss Angie Edwards, a talented young lady and author of some note, has become temporarily insane and her relatives were compelled to place her in charge of the sheriff to-day.

CALIFORNIA WINES.

The Markets Said to be Heavily Overstocked.

According to the San Francisco correspondent of the New York Times for four years the market has been running down. Grapes which were readily sold at $30 a ton and made into wine that brought 30 and 35 cents a gallon were easily obtainable last year at $9 and $10 a ton, and the dealers would have considered themselves fortunate to get 15 cents a gallon for the wine. This year promises an even worse condition. The annual consumption of California wines in the United States is from 16,000,000 to 17,000,000 gallons, as based on statistics for the last three years. The amount used in this state alone is about 6,000,000 gallons. New York, the eastern distributing center, takes from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 gallons; New Orleans the same, and the remainder goes to the comparatively new market of Chicago.

Against this demand the San Francisco dealers have nearly 12,000,000 gallons stored in their vaults, and it is estimated that the producers have from 50,000,000 to 60,000,000 gallons on hand, and are making from 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 gallons each year. At 20 cents a gallon, a low figure for ordinary sales, this would represent from $12,400,000 to $14,400,000 locked up in the wine casks of California. During the four years the growers have received little or no income from their business, represented in their storage of stock, there will be many failures before the grapes of 1892 are pressed.

One of the extensive growers, Charles A. Wetmore, of Livermore Valley, has already been forced to assign because on a stock valued at $55,000 he could not realize enough to keep up an indebtedness of less than $25,000. Mr. Wetmore is secretary of the State Agricultural society.

The fact, as admitted by the growers themselves, is that the industry has been almost ruined by the putting of bad wines on the market. Vineyardists, often inexperienced in even the growing of grapes, have gone to wine-making to secure the profit that their vines would not otherwise bring, and they not only produce an inferior wine, but allow it to sour through ignorance of the art of preservation.

They make wine and attempt to keep it as a New England farmer makes cider and barrels it up. When they find that the stock is souring they sell it for whatever they can get and it is rushed overland and sold for the ordinary California wine. The result is the ruin of the industry and it has brought the growers to a point where the dealers will not take their wine at the price of production.

California wines that were recently sold in New York brought 18 cents a gallon for 1,000 barrels, with the freight of 10 cents a gallon paid by the seller.

FACTS ABOUT ELECTRICITY.

Some Strange Occurrences—What an Electric Spark Will do.

It has long been noted that when a piece of cardboard is pierced by the disruptive discharge or spark, a burr or protuberance is produced upon each of its faces. No satisfactory explanation, so far as I am aware, has been offered for this phenomenon, but the experiment is often cited as furnishing an inference that something has acted upon the cardboard in opposite directions at the same instant. The experiment does not prove that the forces acting pass by each other. Mascart, in giving expression to the commonly accepted view, says:

"The paper appears to have been electrified by induction, and each of its surfaces seems to have been attracted by the nearest point of the two metallic conductors."

And Sprague says: "If a discharge be passed through a card by pasting upon its two sides pointed pieces of tinfoil, with their points not quite opposite, there will be a burr upon both sides, indicating that the force is not a penetrating one, but a pulling one, acting by attraction from each pole." A simple experiment, which I here outline, throws, it would seem to me, a new light upon the nature of the disruptive discharge and possibly upon the nature of electric currents in general.

If, in place of a single piece of cardboard, a pad consisting of numerous sheets, say fifty or more, be perforated by the spark of an influence machine, to each of whose prime conductors is attached a Leyden jar whose outer tinfoil coatings are electrically connected, a new set of appearances from any described may be found upon careful examination of each sheet. The disruptive spark discharge has, in its progress, left a record of certain peculiarities of its passage, like the imprints found of fossils. The two outside sheets will exhibit the characteristic burr or protuberance of a conical shape, but as successive sheets are lifted (the entire pad is united like a book at one end) it will be observed that each exhibits a hole, one-half of whose rim is an indentation and the other half a lip or projection.

The appearance is as if two needles had been thrust by each other in making the same opening, each one thrusting the paper before it in opposite directions; or again as if two express trains had been rushing by each other throughout the length of the same tunnel, scraping along fragments of plastic walls, one in one direction, the other in an opposite direction. The two trains must be supposed to be practically frictionless as regards each other, but accompanied by friction as regards the tunnel.

The deduction may be indulged in that the spark discharge consists in like manner of two elements corresponding to the two polarites, which travel in opposite directions and in relation to each other.—Electrical Engineer.

FREAKS OF DYNAMITE.

Sometimes as Harmless as a Football and Often it "Goes Off" Without Cause.

Under the most favorable conditions dynamite will at times develop a fitful, excitable temperament and a desire to rove that makes it very unpopular in thickly populated districts. And yet, when brought in contact with any grade of society, it is treated with a deference due the exalted eminence it may attain on short notice. Great care is observed in its manufacture to prevent an outbreak and also to preserve the anatomical details of the men who do the work. The workmen and their families, who generally live close by, carry their lives in their hands and so adept do they become that they can carry it in either hand desired. During the day the men work in the mill, and put in the night wondering what will happen before morning.

As a rule a manufacturing plant is one large building, in which the work is done; but with dynamite it is different. The process is conducted in a number of small, cheap buildings, scattered over a wide expanse of territory. Sometimes one or more of them are scattered over the adjacent township. Dynamite is migratory as well as clannish in its habits, and if one building starts the others are liable to be overcome with an almost irresistible desire to accompany it. Unusual care is exercised in the selection of workmen. A man with palpitation of the heart could not obtain a job, as the jolts of his fluttering organ might lead to a sensational catastrophe. And yet their pay is no more than they would get for making plows.

Housewives living near the works also use great caution and put up their winter fruit in tin pails, as the smallest jar might cause a frightful disaster. One-half the world doesn't know how the other half lives.

A careful analysis of dynamite shows that it is composed mostly of ingredients. This will be cheerful intelligence to those who thought it was made of something more complex and therefore harder to grasp. It is comparatively easy to understand the making of the stuff, but the trouble has been and always will be to divine its subsequent intentions in time to make one's self as remote as possible.

The ingredients are nitrate of soda, wood pulp, sulphuric acid and nitric acid and glycerine oil. A mixture of the acids and oil forms nitro-glycerine—the explosive—the soda and wood pulp making an absorbent to contain the liquid earthquake. Nitro-glycerine in the form of dynamite retains its explosive power in full, while the absorbent facilitates handling and lessens the liability of premature death. Dynamite is not near so feverish as nitro-glycerine, and for this reason the workmen are intensely polite in their demeanor toward the last named quality.

The nitrate of soda and wood-pulp are first prepared. Equal quantities of both are thoroughly mixed in a machine like the pugmill used in brick yards. There is no danger in this department, and the man doing the work can think of something else at the time. This machine is run by power which comes from an engine as far away as it is possible to locate it from the works. The engine house is placed near the frontier, otherwise the engineer could not get an insurance on his life. When in proper condition the pulp is taken to the mixing house.

It is in the making of the nitro-glycerine that the greatest danger is incurred, and requires a man with a cool head and a thorough knowledge of his business. The mixture of acids is two-thirds sulphuric and one-third nitric, and its action takes place in an underground lead-lined tank as far removed from the busy haunts of man as possible. It is then conducted to the glycerine house, where a mixture of 80 per cent. oil and 20 per cent. acids is made in a tank. Cold water is kept moving in the lead coils in the tank during the mixing process, and the utmost care is taken to prevent disaster.

While this is going on the man in charge slips away a half mile or so to breathe, lest he precipitate trouble for himself. At the proper time the mixture is drawn off into another tank, where the innate cussedness of the acids is chemically imparted to the heretofore harmless glycerine. The sulphuric acid initiates the process, and is recovered in bulk with its system somewhat enervated. The nitric, in expelling the oxygen and hydrogen and contributing the deadly nitrogen, is decomposed and lost forever, but its works will live in the memory of man, as per West Berkeley.

When ready for the trip the now nitroglycerine is respectfully escorted to the separating room, where the acid is recovered from the mixture. In the separating room the stuff stands in cool tanks where the explosive rises to the top, after the manner of oil, and is run off through rubber pipes embedded in downy sawdust to the mixing department, while the acid is conducted to the regaining works. By some chemical process the sulphuric is separated from the refuse of the nitric acid and can be used again. There is no particular danger attached to this department, but the noxious vapors evolved are something long to be remembered.

In the mixing department the pulp is dumped into a large wooden pan, the nitro-glycerine is poured and the stuff stirred with a long-handled, wooden rake. The quantity of glycerine used depends on the grade of dynamite turned out. When thoroughly mixed the dynamite is taken to the packing room and made into cartridges known as the giant powder of commerce. The packers sit at the table, each with a wooden hod in front of him, into which the yellowish, greasy mixture is shovelled with a wooden scoop. A tin funnel fits under the mouth of the hod, the horn of the funnel running through a hole in the tubes.

But dynamite is not so easily exploded as some people think. It can be placed on an anvil and pounded with a sledge, thrown into the fire and burned, or dumped over a cliff and it will not explode sometimes. If struck by lightning it will go off, and so will other things less nervous. Friction heat is the means employed to touch off dynamite for blasting or revolutionary purposes, and a fuse and percussion cap are used.

The cartridge is opened at one end and a small hole made in the dynamite, into which is placed a piece of common tarred fuse with a copper cap on the end of it. Then you leave word with an expert astronomer to locate your possible remains, light the other end of the fuse, compose a neat, dying exclamation and run in any desired direction.—San Francisco Call.

A NEW EPITAPH.

An incorrigible office-seeker died a few years ago and his friends asked a well-known journalist for an epitaph for his tombstone.

The journalist suggested the following, which was not, however, adopted:

Here Lies John Jones

—Youth's Companion.

HIS ELOQUENT SILENCE.

"You've eaten all that is good for you, Willie," said his mother in a low tone. "You must not ask for anything more. Remember now that little boys should be seen, and not heard."

"I'll quit talking," replied Willie in a hoarse whisper distinctly heard by the visitor, "but my silence means that I want some more of that pie."—Chicago Tribune.
